FOR THE DISTRICT OF MARYLAND

JUDY JIEN, et al.

Plaintiffs,

v.

PERDUE FARMS, INC., et al.

CIVIL ACTION NO. 1:19-CV-2521-SAG

MOUNTAIRE’S ANSWER TO PLAINTIFFS’ SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT

Defendant Mountaire Farms Inc. (“Mountaire”) hereby submits its answer and affirmative defenses to the Second Amended Complaint (“Complaint”) of Judy Jien, et al. (“Plaintiffs”), filed on November 2, 2020, as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

Mountaire denies all allegations in the Complaint, including the statements in the opening unnumbered paragraph, unless it expressly admits those allegations herein. Where an allegation in the Complaint is directed at another Defendant or a party that is not affiliated with Mountaire, except as otherwise expressly stated, Mountaire denies the allegations set forth in the Complaint on the basis that it denies the knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief concerning the truth of such allegations. Further, unless otherwise expressly admitted, Mountaire denies any allegations in the headings, footnotes, or in other places in the Complaint. Any headings, subheadings or similar text that Mountaire has reprinted in this Answer are for the convenience of the Court and the parties, and are not intended to be nor shall they be construed as an admission of any fact by Mountaire.

I. INTRODUCTION

1. For more than a decade, Defendants have conspired and combined to fix and depress the compensation paid to employees at poultry processing plants in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 1 relate to other Defendants, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

2. Defendants consist of 14 poultry processors and several of their subsidiaries (“Defendant Processors”), which process and produce approximately 80 percent of the poultry sold to consumers in the United States, and two consulting companies that facilitate the exchange of competitively sensitive compensation data, Agri Stats, Inc. (“Agri Stats”) and Webber, Meng, Sahl and Company, Inc. d/b/a WMS and Company, Inc. (“WMS”).

ANSWER: Paragraph 2 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims to which no response is required. Mountaire denies the allegations to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire, except Mountaire admits that it processes and produces chicken sold in the United States. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 2 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

3. Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities own and operate approximately 200 poultry processing plants in the continental United States. These poultry processing plants have employed hundreds of thousands of Class Members who facilitate the processing of live chickens and turkeys into poultry products sold to retailers and consumers. Class Members have occupied various positions in poultry processing plants, from hanging live birds to slicing meat from their bones to repairing the machines to supervising processing lines.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 3 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

4. Defendant Processors have compensated Class Members with hourly wages or annual salaries and employment benefits. Each Defendant Processor has established a schedule for hourly wage rates, annual salaries and employment benefits based on the specific position and years of experience of the Class Members. At each Defendant Processor, those hourly wage rates, annual salaries and employment benefits were established and approved by senior executives at corporate headquarters during the Class Period.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 4 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the allegations purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies that there are “Class Members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. Mountaire admits that it compensates its employees with hourly wages, annual salaries and other benefits of employment. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations.

5. Since January 1, 2009, Defendants have conspired to fix and depress the compensation paid to Class Members. Defendants have engaged in this unlawful conspiracy to maximize their profits by reducing labor costs, which have comprised a substantial share of each Defendant Processor's total operating costs.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations of Paragraph 5 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies that are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. Mountaire further denies all of the conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 5 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

6. Defendants formed, implemented, monitored and enforced the conspiracy in three ways. First, senior executives of the Defendant Processors, including human resources executives and directors of compensation, held recurring "off the books" in-person meetings at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, during which they exchanged information about, discussed, agreed upon and ultimately fixed the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. These "off the books" meetings between senior executives of the Defendant Processors involved such brazen compensation-fixing that at least one Defendant Processor stopped attending a couple of years ago because of concerns that antitrust enforcers would hold it to account for actions at the meetings.

ANSWER: To the extent paragraph 6 purports to make allegations against Mountaire, Mountaire denies those allegations. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 6 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 6 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations.

7. Second, on a highly frequent basis, Defendant Processors exchanged detailed, current and non-public compensation information through surveys conducted by Agri Stats and WMS. Each Defendant Processor subscribed to and partnered with Agri Stats to exchange and receive—on a monthly basis—effective wage rates regarding categories of poultry processing plant workers from each Defendant Processor’s plants. Similarly, WMS conducted a detailed annual survey of the hourly wages, annual salaries and employment benefits paid by each Defendant Processor to each category of poultry processing plant worker and circulated the survey results to senior executives of the Defendant Processors during in-person meetings. While both Agri Stats and WMS have claimed that the exchanged compensation data was anonymous, the data was sufficiently granular and disaggregated that executives of Defendant Processors could and did easily match much of the distributed compensation data to poultry processing plants operated by specific Defendant Processors. Defendant Processors used the data obtained from Agri Stats and WMS to fix and depress the compensation paid to Class Members and ensure and confirm that no conspirator deviated from the conspiracy.

ANSWER: To the extent paragraph 7 purports to make allegations against Mountaire, Mountaire denies those allegations, except Mountaire admits that it transferred certain data to Agri Stats for lawful, non-conspiratorial purposes and that it responded to parts of one survey which it believed was conducted by WMS. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 7 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 7 relate to other

Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies them. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations.

8. Third, managers located at Defendant Processors' poultry processing plants engaged in bilateral and regional exchanges of wage, salary and benefits information. Those managers frequently reached out directly to their counterparts at competitors' poultry processing plants to request and exchange compensation data, including data regarding plans for future wages, salaries and benefits. Those plant-to-plant exchanges of compensation information were conducted through various mediums, including telephone calls and electronic surveys. The compensation data obtained from these plant-to-plant information exchanges was provided to executives of the Defendant Processors at corporate headquarters, who used the data to facilitate the fixing of compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 8 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 8 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations.

9. Numerous characteristics of the poultry processing industry have facilitated the formation and implementation of the conspiracy, including but not limited to, the following: (a) vertical integration; (b) high barriers to entry; (c) industry concentration; (d) fungibility of poultry processing plant workers; (e) inelastic labor supply; (f) a history of government investigations into collusive actions; (g) personal relationships between executives at competing poultry processors; and (h) numerous opportunities to collude.

ANSWER: To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 9 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased Paragraph 9 includes Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 9 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 9

10. The intended and actual effect of Defendants' conspiracy to fix compensation has been to reduce and suppress the wages, salaries and benefits paid to Class Members since January 2009 to levels materially lower than they would have been in a competitive market. During the Class Period, even while worker productivity and processing line speeds increased significantly, increases in compensation provided to Class Members were highly restrained and limited. Economic analysis conducted by expert economists retained by Plaintiffs shows that compensation of plant workers employed by non-poultry food manufacturers was higher, and increased at a materially more rapid rate, than compensation paid by Defendant Processors to Class Members during the Class Period.

ANSWER: To the extent Paragraph 10 contains factual allegations purporting to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them and specifically denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire further denies that there are "Class Members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 10 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

11. The agreement entered by Defendants to fix and depress compensation to employees of poultry processing plants has unreasonably restrained trade in violation of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1. Plaintiffs, on their own behalf and on behalf of the Class, bring this antitrust action to enjoin Defendants from continuing their unlawful agreement and to recover actual, compensatory and treble damages, as well as costs, attorneys' fees and interest. Plaintiffs demand a trial by jury.

ANSWER: Paragraph 11 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 11 purports to make factual allegations that relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them and specifically denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 11 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

12. The Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1337, and Sections 4 and 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 15(a) and 26.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits this Court has subject matter jurisdiction.

13. This Court has personal jurisdiction over each of the Defendants pursuant to Section 12 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 22, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 4(h)(1)(A), and the long-arm statute of the forum state. Defendants Perdue Farms, Inc. and Perdue Foods LLC reside in this District and used their headquarters in Salisbury, Maryland to implement and coordinate the restraints of trade described below. In addition, Defendants: (1) transacted substantial business in the United States, including in this District; (2) transacted with, and caused injury to, Class Members located throughout the United States, including in this District; and (3) committed substantial acts in furtherance of the unlawful scheme in the United States, including in this District. For example:

- Each of the Defendants regularly sold poultry products in the state of Maryland during the Class Period and continues to sell poultry products in the state of Maryland;
- Defendants Perdue Farms, Inc. and Perdue Foods LLC are headquartered and incorporated in the state of Maryland;
- Defendants Perdue Farms, Inc. and Perdue Foods LLC operated poultry processing plants in the state of Maryland during the Class Period and provided compensation to Class Members in those plants at suppressed rates as a result of the conspiracy between all the Defendants alleged herein;
- Defendants Perdue Farms, Inc.; Perdue Foods LLC; Mountaire Farms, Inc.; and Tyson Foods, Inc. had employees located in the state of Maryland and/or contracted with poultry growers in the state of Maryland during the Class Period;
- Defendants Agri Stats and WMS regularly provided services to Defendant Processors in the state of Maryland during the Class Period, including to Perdue Farms, Inc. and Perdue Foods LLC;
- A leading trade associations representing the poultry processing industry—the National Chicken Council—held at least eight meetings in the state of Maryland during the Class Period that were attended by many of the Defendants, such as the three-day “Chicken Media Summit” that was held in Cambridge, Maryland in April 2015;
- Another leading trade association representing the poultry processing industry—the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc.—held at least 11 meetings in the state of Maryland during the Class Period that were attended by many of the Defendants.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits that it is subject to the personal jurisdiction of this Court for purposes of this matter only. Mountaire admits that it has sold chicken products in the state of Maryland and admits it had employees who live in Maryland. Mountaire further denies that there are “Class Members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations concerning other Defendants and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 13 and specifically denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased.

14. Venue is proper in this District under 15 U.S.C. § 22 and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b), (c), and (d) because one or more of the Defendants transacted business, was found, and/or resided in this District; a substantial part of the events giving rise to Plaintiffs’ claims arose in this District; and a substantial portion of the affected interstate trade and commerce described herein has been carried out in this District.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits that venue as to it is proper in this district for purposes of this matter only. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 14.

III. PARTIES

A. Plaintiffs

15. Judy Jien was employed as a deboner at a poultry processing plant operated by George’s Processing, Inc. in Springdale, Arkansas and at a poultry processing plant operated by Tyson Foods, Inc. in Springdale, Arkansas during the Class Period. She is a resident of the state of Arkansas.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 15 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

16. Kieo Jibidi was employed as a deboner at a poultry processing plant operated by Simmons Prepared Foods, Inc. in Decatur, Arkansas and at a poultry processing plant operated by Tyson Foods, Inc. in Springdale, Arkansas during the Class Period. She is a resident of the state of Arkansas.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 16 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

17. Elaisa Clement was employed as a deboner at a poultry processing plant operated by George's Processing, Inc. in Springdale, Arkansas during the Class Period. He is a resident of the state of Arkansas

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 17 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

18. Glenda Robinson was employed in the day pack department at a poultry processing plant operated by Tyson Foods, Inc. in Forest, Mississippi during the Class Period. She is a resident of the state of Mississippi.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 18 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

19. Emily Earnest was employed as a deboner at a poultry processing plant operated by Pilgrim's Pride Corporation in Russellville, Alabama during the Class Period. She is a resident of the state of Alabama.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 19 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

B. Defendants

1. Perdue Defendants

20. Perdue Farms, Inc. (“Perdue Farms”) is a privately held Maryland corporation headquartered in Salisbury, Maryland. During the Class Period, Perdue Farms and/or its predecessors, wholly owned or controlled subsidiaries, or other affiliates employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 20 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

21. During the Class Period, Perdue Farms directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Perdue Farms attended annual “off the books” in-person meetings of a secret Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. For example, employees of Perdue Farms attended the “off-the-books” meeting of the Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida in April 2017. According to former employees of Defendants, employees of Perdue Farms regularly attended such meetings.
- In advance of, and for discussion at, the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Perdue Farms submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings. For example, employees of Perdue Farms completed and submitted a WMS survey immediately before, and for distribution at, the April 2017 meeting of the Compensation Committee in Destin, Florida. A former employee of Perdue Farms noted that attendees at the “off-the-books” meetings could determine which company reported which compensation data in the WMS survey because “you’re sitting in a meeting and the person across from you [from a competing processor] is reporting on what they do.”

- Perdue Farms subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis. A former employee of Perdue Farms said that the company spent “enormous effort analyzing Agri Stats” and that its CEO was an “Agri Stats guru and nut” who had an “absolute understanding” of the reported Agri Stats data. According to a former employee of Perdue Farms, the company even brought in Agri Stats personnel to teach management “how to extract information” from Agri Stats data.
- Employees of Perdue Farms analyzed current and future compensation data that was obtained directly from competing poultry processing plants by managers of Perdue plants.
- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Perdue Farms established compensation schedules for Class Members employed at Perdue plants throughout the country at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 21 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

22. Perdue Foods LLC (“Perdue Foods”) is a privately held Maryland limited liability company headquartered in Salisbury, Maryland. Perdue Foods is a subsidiary of Perdue Farms. Perdue Foods owns poultry processing plants in multiple states, including California, Delaware, Georgia, Indiana, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and Washington. During the Class Period, Perdue Foods employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 22 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

23. During the Class Period, Perdue Foods directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Perdue Foods routinely exchanged current and future wage rates with human resources managers at competing poultry processing plants.
- For example, on an annual basis, a former employee of Perdue Foods contacted managers of rival poultry processing plants operated by Pilgrim's Pride Corporation, Cargill Meat Solutions Corporation, and Virginia Poultry Growers Cooperative, Inc. and requested their current hourly wage rates for plant workers as well as any planned future increases to those hourly wage rates. The former human resources manager said, "We would collaborate. We would talk among each other to see what they were doing for pay." The former human resources manager provided the compensation data obtained from those rival poultry processing plants to employees of Perdue Farms at corporate headquarters.
- Similarly, employees of Perdue Foods at a poultry processing plant in Cromwell, Kentucky regularly exchanged current compensation data with managers of a rival poultry processing plant owned by Pilgrim's Pride Corporation in Mayfield, Kentucky.

- Employees of Perdue Foods also reviewed disaggregated Agri Stats wage data at monthly or quarterly meetings that were held at the company's poultry processing plants.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 23 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

24. Defendants Perdue Farms and Perdue Foods are collectively referred to as "Perdue."

ANSWER: Paragraph 24 consists of Plaintiffs' explanation of a defined term, to which no response is required.

2. Tyson Defendants

25. Tyson Foods, Inc. ("Tyson Foods") is a publicly traded Delaware corporation headquartered in Springdale, Arkansas. During the Class Period, Tyson Foods, Inc. and its predecessors, wholly owned or controlled subsidiaries, and/or other affiliates employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 25 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

26. During the Class Period, Tyson Foods directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Tyson Foods attended annual "off the books" in-person meetings of a secret Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. For example, employees of Tyson Foods attended the “off-the-books” meeting of the Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida in April 2017. According to former employees of Defendants, employees of Tyson Foods regularly attended such meetings.

- In advance of, and for discussion at, the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Tyson Foods submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings. For example, employees of Tyson Foods completed and submitted a WMS survey immediately before, and for distribution at, the April 2017 meeting of the Compensation Committee in Destin, Florida.
- During several years of the Class Period, Tyson Foods fully paid WMS to conduct the detailed compensation survey of competing poultry processors and to host the “off the books” meetings of the Compensation Committee.
- Tyson Foods subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis.
- Employees of Tyson Foods routinely exchanged current and future wage rates with human resources managers at competing poultry processing plants. For example, in the fall of 2017, employees of a plant owned by Tyson Foods in Union City, Tennessee exchanged future wage rates with managers of a poultry plant owned by Pilgrim’s Pride Corporation in Mayfield, Kentucky.

- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Tyson Foods established compensation schedules for, and made payments directly to, Class Members employed at Tyson plants around the country at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 26 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

27. Keystone Foods, LLC (“Keystone”) is a Delaware corporation located in West Chester, Pennsylvania, and is a wholly owned subsidiary of Tyson Foods. During the Class Period, Keystone employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 27 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

28. During the Class Period, Keystone directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Keystone attended annual “off the books” in-person meetings of a secret Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. For example, employees of Keystone attended the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida that were held in April 2015 and April 2017.
- In advance of, and for discussion at, the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Keystone submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings. For example, employees of Keystone completed and submitted WMS surveys immediately before, and for distribution at, both the April 2015 and April 2017 meetings of the Compensation Committee in Destin, Florida.

- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Keystone made payments directly to Class Members at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 28 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

29. Defendants Tyson Foods and Keystone are collectively referred to as “Tyson.”

ANSWER: Paragraph 29 consists of Plaintiffs’ explanation of a defined term, to which no response is required.

3. Pilgrim’s Pride Corporation

30. Pilgrim’s Pride Corporation (“Pilgrim’s”) is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Greeley, Colorado. JBS USA Holdings, Inc. holds a 75.3% controlling interest in Pilgrim’s. JBS USA Holdings and Pilgrim’s are subsidiaries of JBS SA, a Brazilian corporation headquartered in Sao Paulo, Brazil. During the Class Period, Pilgrim’s and its predecessors, wholly owned or controlled subsidiaries, and/or other affiliates employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 30 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

31. During the Class Period, Pilgrim’s directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Pilgrim's attended annual "off the books" in-person meetings of a secret Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. For example, employees of Pilgrim's attended the "off-the-books" meeting of the Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida in April 2017. According to former employees of Defendants, employees of Pilgrim's regularly attended such meetings.
- In advance of, and for discussion at, the "off-the-books" meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Pilgrim's submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings. For example, employees of Pilgrim's completed and submitted a WMS survey immediately before, and for distribution at, the April 2017 meeting of the Compensation Committee in Destin, Florida.
- During several years of the Class Period, Pilgrim's fully paid WMS to conduct the detailed compensation survey of competing poultry processors and to hold "off the books" meetings of the Compensation Committee.
- Pilgrim's subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable, and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis.

- Employees of Pilgrim's reviewed disaggregated Agri Stats wage data during recurrent meetings at the company's poultry processing plants. During such meetings, those employees would reverse engineer the Agri Stats data to match which company's plant was associated with which reported compensation data.
- Executives of Pilgrim's requested that managers of Pilgrim's plants obtain information about current and future compensation directly from managers of competing poultry processing plants.
- Employees of Pilgrim's routinely exchanged current and future wage rates with managers of competing poultry processing plants. For example, in the fall of 2017, managers of the poultry processing plant owned by Pilgrim's in Mayfield, Kentucky requested and obtained future wage rates from a poultry processing plant owned by Tyson Foods in Union City, Tennessee and current wage rates from a poultry processing plant owned by Perdue Foods in Cromwell, Kentucky.
- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Pilgrim's established compensation schedules for, and made payments directly to, Class Members employed at Pilgrim's plants around the country at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 31 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

32. Around December 1, 2008, Pilgrim's filed a voluntary Chapter 11 petition in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas. Effective December 28, 2009, Pilgrim's was discharged from bankruptcy under a plan of reorganization that paid all creditors in full. Pilgrim's participated in the conspiracy alleged herein throughout the Class Period, including before and after its discharge from bankruptcy.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 32 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

33. Regardless of whether Pilgrim's participated in the conspiracy throughout the Class Period, this Complaint seeks to recover damages from Pilgrim's only for the post-discharge conduct of Pilgrim's, and in no way seeks to violate any orders of the above referenced Bankruptcy Court. However, by operation of law, the damages arising from the post-discharge conduct of Pilgrim's include damages incurred by Plaintiffs and other Class Members throughout the Class Period. This Complaint also seeks to recover damages from the other Defendants for the pre-discharge conspiratorial conduct of Pilgrim's.

ANSWER: Paragraph 33 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 33 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased.

4. Sanderson Farms, Inc.

34. Sanderson Farms, Inc. ("Sanderson Farms") is a publicly held Mississippi corporation headquartered in Laurel, Mississippi. During the Class Period, Sanderson Farms and its predecessors, wholly owned or controlled subsidiaries, and/or other affiliates employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 34 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

35. During the Class Period, Sanderson Farms directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Sanderson Farms attended annual “off the books” in-person meetings of a secret Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. According to a former Pilgrim’s employee, employees of Sanderson Farms attended the annual meetings of the Compensation Committee in Destin, Florida.
- In advance of, and for discussion at, the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Sanderson Farms submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings.
- Sanderson Farms subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis. Joe Sanderson, then-CEO and Chairman of Sanderson Farms, stated that “we live and die by Agri Stats.”
- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Sanderson Farms established compensation schedules for, and made payments directly to, Class Members employed at Sanderson plants around the country at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 35 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

5. Koch Foods, Inc.

36. Koch Foods, Inc. (“Koch Foods”) is a privately held Delaware corporation with its corporate headquarters in Park Ridge, Illinois. During the Class Period, Koch Foods and/or its predecessors, wholly owned or controlled subsidiaries, or other affiliates employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 36 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

37. During the Class Period, Koch Foods directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Koch Foods attended annual “off the books” in-person meetings of a secret Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. For example, employees of Koch Foods attended the “off-the-books” meeting of the Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida in April 2017.
- In advance of, and for discussion at, the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Koch Foods submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings. For example, employees of Koch Foods completed and submitted a WMS survey immediately before, and for distribution at, the April 2017 meeting of the Compensation Committee in Destin, Florida.

- Koch Foods subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable, and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis.
- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Koch Foods established compensation schedules for Class Members employed at Koch plants around the country at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

6. Wayne Farms, LLC

38. Wayne Farms, LLC (“Wayne Farms”) is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Oakwood, Georgia. It is a subsidiary of Continental Grain Company, which is a privately held company in Arlon, Belgium. Wayne Farms operates poultry processing plants in multiple states, including Georgia, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi and North Carolina. During the Class Period, Wayne Farms and its predecessors, wholly owned or controlled subsidiaries, and/or other affiliates employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 38 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

39. During the Class Period, Wayne Farms directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Wayne Farms attended annual “off the books” in-person meetings of a secret

Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. For example, employees of Wayne Farms attended the “off-the-books” meeting of the Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida in April 2017.

- In advance of, and for discussion at, the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Wayne Farms submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings. For example, employees of Wayne Farms completed and submitted a WMS survey immediately before, and for distribution at, the April 2017 meeting of the Compensation Committee in Destin, Florida.
- Wayne Farms subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable, and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis.
- Wayne Farms distributed compensation surveys directly to multiple competing poultry processors in the Southeast region. Those surveys requested information regarding the compensation paid to poultry processing plant workers. Multiple rival poultry processors returned the completed surveys to Wayne Farms.
- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Wayne Farms established compensation schedules for, and made payments directly to, Class Members employed at Wayne Farms plants at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 39 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

7. Mountaire Farms, Inc.

40. Mountaire Farms, Inc. (“Mountaire Farms”) is a privately held Delaware corporation with its headquarters in Millsboro, Delaware. During the Class Period, Mountaire Farms and its predecessors, wholly owned or controlled subsidiaries, and/or other affiliates employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to Class Members in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits that Mountaire Farms Inc., is a privately held Delaware corporation located in Millsboro, Delaware. Paragraph 40 contains undefined terms (“other affiliates”) and, therefore, Mountaire denies the allegations relating to those terms. Mountaire admits that it employed and paid wages, salaries and/or benefits to its employees in the United States during the alleged Class Period. Mountaire denies that there are “Class Members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise.

41. During the Class Period, Mountaire Farms directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Employees of Mountaire Farms attended annual “off the books” in-person meetings of a secret Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, where executives from competing poultry processors gathered to exchange information about, discuss, agree upon and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members at artificially depressed levels. A former employee of a coconspirator indicated that employees of Mountaire Farms attended such meetings.
- In advance of, and for discussion at, the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, employees of Mountaire Farms submitted highly detailed and current compensation data to WMS, with the knowledge and expectation that such surveyed data would be distributed to, and examined by, other attendees of the meetings.

- Mountaire Farms subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis.
- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Mountaire Farms established compensation schedules for, and made payments directly to, Class Members employed at Mountaire plants around the country at artificially depressed, wage fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 41 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire admits that representatives of Mountaire attended a meeting at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida in 2011, but denies any characterization of that meeting by Plaintiffs; that it responded to parts of one survey that it believes was conducted by WMS; and that it transferred certain data to Agri Stats for lawful, non-conspiratorial purposes. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 41.

8. Peco Foods, Inc.

42. Peco Foods, Inc. (“Peco Foods”) is a privately held Alabama corporation headquartered in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 42 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

43. During the Class Period, Peco Foods directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- Peco Foods subscribed to Agri Stats to exchange current, disaggregated, readily decodable, and plant-specific compensation data with competing poultry processors on a monthly basis.
- Employees of Peco Foods routinely exchanged current and future wage rates with human resources managers at competing poultry processing plants. A former employee of Peco Foods explained that human resources staff at the company would often contact their counterparts at competitor poultry processing plants and exchange information about starting pay rates, pay increases, and employment benefits. He explained that this “type of thing happened all the time.”
- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Peco Foods established compensation schedules for, and made payments directly to, Class Members employed at Peco Foods plants around the country at artificially depressed, wage-fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 43 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

- As a consequence of the conspiracy, Cargill established compensation schedules for, and made payments directly to, Class Members employed at Cargill’s plants around the country at artificially depressed, wage-fixed rates.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 58 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

15. Agri Stats, Inc.

59. Agri Stats, Inc. is an Indiana corporation located in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Throughout the Class Period, Agri Stats facilitated the exchange of confidential, proprietary, and competitively sensitive compensation data among Defendant Processors and their co-conspirators.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in the first sentence of Paragraph 59 and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 59, to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

60. During the Class Period, Agri Stats directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- At the request of the Defendant Processors, Agri Stats uploaded each Defendant Processor's salary and wage data for each of their, and their subsidiaries', respective poultry processing plants and then exchanged that proprietary compensation data between each of the Defendant Processors on a monthly basis.
- The compensation data exchanged by Agri Stats between the Defendant Processors each month was non-public, disaggregated, plant-specific, current, and readily decodable. Indeed, a former employee of Perdue Farms said that Agri Stats compensation data was "supposedly confidential" but Perdue Farms and every other poultry processor participating in Agri Stats knew precisely which company reported which data.

- If a Defendant Processor desired assistance to decode exchanged compensation data, Agri Stats would and did assist those Defendant Processors in identifying the source of that exchanged data. A former employee of Butterball explained that “you could figure out” which company reported which compensation data to Agri Stats by speaking with Agri Stats representatives who provided the data. Perdue Farms, for example, brought in Agri Stats personnel to teach its management “how to extract information” from Agri Stats data.
- During the Class Period, Agri Stats met with each Defendant Processor’s executives on a quarterly basis and, during those meetings, discussed the nonpublic data that Agri Stats had collected from poultry processors each month.
- Defendant Processors knew that they could rely on Agri Stats data to set compensation and monitor the conspiracy because Agri Stats carefully audited the raw compensation data that it collected from each Defendant Processor. Indeed, a former Butterball employee said there was “no question about it” that Agri Stats was used by poultry processors to monitor each other’s performance.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 60, to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 60 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

16. Webber, Meng, Sahl and Company, Inc.

61. Webber, Meng, Sahl and Company, Inc. d/b/a WMS and Company, Inc. is a Pennsylvania corporation located in Pottstown, Pennsylvania. Throughout the Class Period, WMS facilitated the exchange of confidential, proprietary, and competitively sensitive compensation data among Defendant Processors and their co-conspirators.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in the first sentence of Paragraph 61 and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 61, to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

62. During the Class Period, WMS directly participated in the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation to poultry processing plant workers by, among other things, doing the following:

- WMS conducted a detailed annual survey of the current hourly wages, annual salaries and employment benefits paid by each Defendant Processor and their subsidiaries to each category of poultry processing plant worker and circulated the survey results to senior executives of the Defendant Processors during annual in-person “off the books” meetings.
- At the “off-the-books” meetings, WMS delivered a PowerPoint presentation that emphasized the average and median wage rates and salaries for each poultry processing plant position based on the survey data provided by the Defendant Processors, thereby establishing benchmarks that facilitated compensation-fixing discussions. Indeed, a former employee of Pilgrim’s said that attendees at the in-person meetings discussed with each other whether they paid a particular position less or more than the WMS survey average.
- WMS prohibited Defendant Processors from remotely exchanging compensation data.

Rather, WMS required Defendants Processors to attend the in-person meetings in order to receive the compensation survey results, thus ensuring the confidentiality of the data and providing the means for Defendant Processors to discuss and fix compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 62, to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 62 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

IV. AGENTS AND CO-CONSPIRATORS

63. The entities named below have participated as co-conspirators with Defendants and have performed acts and made statements in furtherance of the conspiracy to fix and depress compensation alleged herein.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 63 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. VI. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

A. Background

1. Poultry Industry

133. The United States Department of Agriculture defines “poultry” to mean “any domesticated bird used for food.” The poultry industry in the United States is the world’s largest producer of poultry meat.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 133 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

134. Meat from chicken and turkey account for more than 99% of the poultry meat produced in the United States. Chicken meat accounts for approximately 89% of the poultry meat produced in the United States. Turkey meat accounts for approximately 11% of the poultry meat produced in the United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 134 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

135. Poultry processed for consumption may be sold in a variety of forms, including fresh or frozen, raw or cooked, whole or in parts, or as a meat ingredient in a value-added product. The poultry processed by Defendant Processors are commodity products with little or no differentiation between processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits that chicken processed for consumption may be sold in a variety of forms, including those examples listed in the first sentence of Paragraph 135. Mountaire denies the allegations in the second sentence to the extent the allegations relate to chicken. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 135 and, therefore, denies them.

136. Poultry processing is concentrated in the hands of the Defendant Processors, which control approximately 80 percent of the production of processed poultry in the United States. Defendant Processors earn more than $30 billion in annual revenue from the sale of processed poultry.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 136 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

137. Defendant Processors are vertically integrated companies that control nearly every aspect of poultry production. When commercial poultry production first emerged, different companies owned businesses involved in the different stages of poultry production. Specifically, different companies owned: hatcheries, where eggs are hatched; growers, which raise the hatched birds; feed mills, which produce and supply food products for those birds; and processing plants, where live birds are slaughtered and turned into poultry products for sale and consumption. Today, more than 90 percent of poultry for consumption is produced by vertically integrated companies, such as Defendant Processors, that each own or control their own hatcheries, feed mills, growers, and processing plants.

ANSWER: To the extent Paragraph 137 purports to make allegations relating to Mountaire, Mountaire denies those allegations except Mountaire admits that it owns, controls, or has at least some influence over some, but not all, aspects of the production of chicken that it sells. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 137 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 137.

2. Poultry Processing Plants

138. Once chickens and turkeys for consumption reach maturity, they are typically processed in poultry processing plants. There are two kinds of poultry processing plants. The first—slaughterhouse facilities—kill birds and convert the carcasses into raw poultry products fit for human consumption. The second—further processing facilities—convert the raw chicken and turkey into value-added forms by cutting, deboning, breading, cooking or otherwise engaging in additional processing. The Class is comprised of workers employed by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities in both slaughterhouse facilities and further processing facilities.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits that once chickens raised for consumption reach maturity, they are typically, but not always, processed in chicken processing plants. Mountaire denies that there are just two kinds of poultry processing plants, as there are many unique plants. Mountaire admits that chicken processing plants generally kill chickens and convert the carcasses into raw poultry products fit for human consumption, as well as other products and that the same or other distinct facilities may process raw chicken into value-added forms. The last sentence of Paragraph 138 contains the Plaintiffs' description of its purported class, to which no response is required. To the extent a response is required, Mountaire denies the allegations and denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 138.

139. Collectively, Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities currently own approximately 200 poultry processing plants in the continental United States. A majority of those poultry processing plants are located in the South and Upper Midwest.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies that its processing plant is located in the South or the Upper Midwest, as it understands those geographic descriptions. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 139 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

140. Poultry processing plants are typically located near the growers with which they contract. As a result, the vast majority of poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors and their subsidiaries are clustered in groups in rural areas. In fact, each Defendant Processor or its subsidiaries owns at least one poultry processing plant that is within 32 miles of a poultry processing plant owned by another Defendant Processor or another Defendant Processor's subsidiary. Indeed, with the exception of Defendant Jennie-O, each Defendant Processor or its subsidiaries owns a plant that is within 13 miles of a poultry processing plant owned by another Defendant Processor or another Defendant Processor's subsidiary.

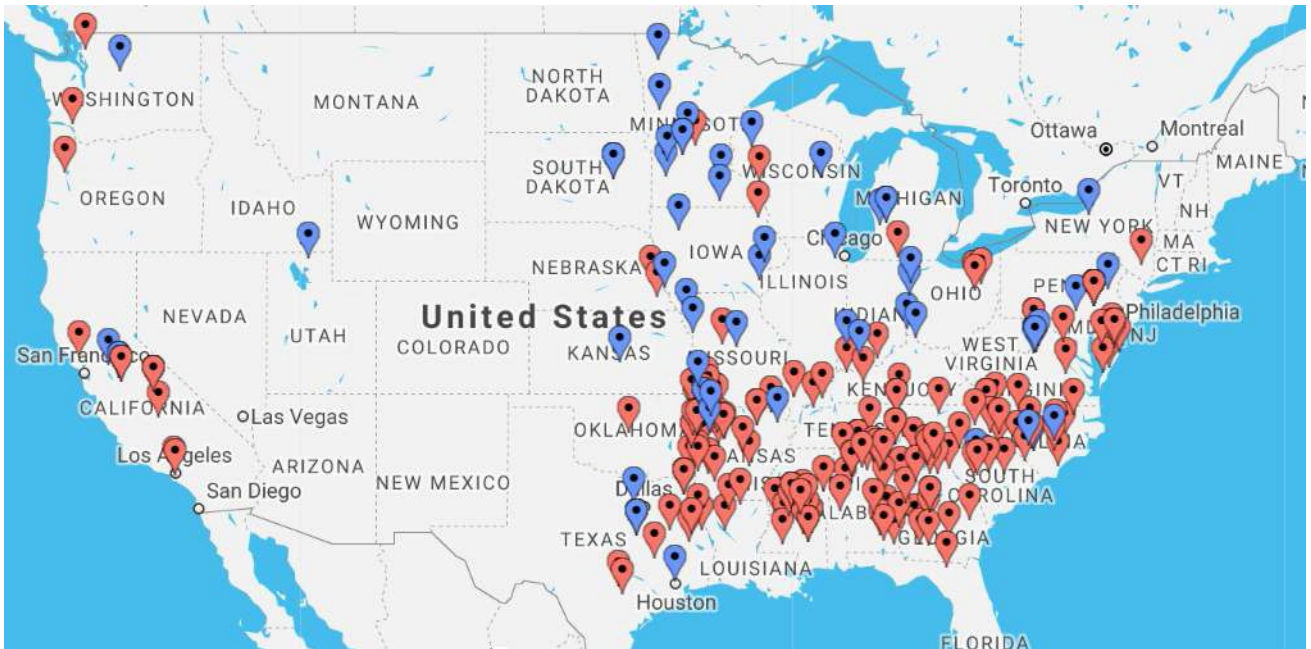

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 140 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

141. The geographic proximity of poultry processing plants means that, in a competitive labor market, many employees of poultry processing plants could and would switch their employment to rival poultry processing plants when offered higher wages, higher salaries and/or superior benefits. For that reason, each Defendant Processor has risked the loss of processing plant workers to, and in fact did lose processing plant workers to, another Defendant Processor's nearby poultry processing plant.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 141 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

142. The following map identifies the locations of the chicken and turkey processing plants currently operating in the continental United States; chicken processing plants are represented by red pins, and turkey processing plants are represented by blue pins²

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 142 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

3. Poultry Processing Plant Workers

143. Each year during the Class Period, Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities collectively employed approximately 220,000 workers at their poultry processing

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 143 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

144. Because Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities produce commodity poultry products in a similarly efficient and vertically integrated manner, their poultry processing facilities were and are characterized by highly similar operations and thus highly similar labor requirements. Accordingly, the workers employed by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities at each of their approximately 200 poultry processing plants in the continental United States during the Class Period, i.e. Class Members, were easily categorized into a limited set of discrete job positions.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 144, to the extent they relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 144 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

145. For example, in their poultry processing plants, each Defendant Processor or its subsidiaries employs “live hangers,” who hang live birds by their feet onto fast-moving metal hooks; “eviscerators,” who remove the internal organs from bird carcasses; “deboners,” who remove bones from bird carcasses; and “first line supervisors,” who supervise workers on the processing lines.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 145 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that it employs individuals who perform the tasks described in Paragraph 145. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 145.

4. Compensating Poultry Processing Plant Workers

146. Employees at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities were paid either hourly wages or annual salaries, depending on their position.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 146 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that its employees were paid an hourly wage or an annual salary, depending on the employee's position, but to the extent Paragraph 146 purports to allege that these forms of compensation were the only forms of compensation Mountaire paid to its employees, Mountaire denies the allegation. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 146.

147. Approximately 90 percent of employees at those poultry processing plants were either production workers who physically worked on processing lines to process poultry, or maintenance workers who maintained and repaired processing line machines and/or refrigeration systems. Those production and maintenance workers were paid hourly wages according to their specific position and experience.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 147 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

148. Approximately 10 percent of employees at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities were paid annual salaries. These employees include supervisory positions such as first line supervisors who supervised hourly-paid production workers, and plant maintenance supervisors who supervised hourly-paid maintenance workers.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 148 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

149. Both hourly-paid and salary-paid employees at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities received employment benefits. Those benefits typically included health insurance, paid time off, a retirement savings plan, disability insurance and life insurance. Each Defendant Processor calculated a specific dollar value for the benefits paid to each Class Member.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 149 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that it provides benefits for some of its employees, the dollar value of which sometimes can, and is, estimated. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 149.

150. The total compensation provided to hourly-paid Class Members, inclusive of benefits, was referred to within the industry as the “fully loaded wage.” For example, according to Perdue Farms, the “fully loaded wage” at the company’s Delmarva processing plants in 2016 was $17.12 for the lowest paid plant worker. That particular “fully loaded wage” was comprised of a $12 hourly wage plus a benefits package equal to $5.12 per hour.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 150 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

151. Some hourly-paid positions at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities were paid higher wages than other hourly-paid positions at the same poultry processing plants, largely due to the greater skill and experience required by those higher-paying positions. For example, “deboners” were typically paid more than many other non-supervisory workers at poultry processing plants. Effectively deboning a chicken or turkey requires some experience and training, and Defendant Processors earn more money when a bird is deboned effectively, i.e. cut closest to the bone to maximize the amount of meat obtained. Nonetheless, the compensation for all hourly-paid positions at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities was determined in a systematic way using compensation schedules within each Defendant Processor that were aligned with the compensation for the same positions established by other Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 151 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that some of its hourly-paid positions are paid higher wages than other of its hourly-paid positions and admits that some of its employees have greater skills and experience than other employees. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 151.

152. Similarly, some salary-paid positions at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities were paid higher salaries than other salary-paid positions, largely due to the greater skill and experience required by those higher paying salaried positions. For example, a processing shift manager, who directs a production operation for an entire section of a poultry processing plant, receives a higher salary than a first line supervisor, who reports to the processing shift manager. Nonetheless, the compensation for all salary-paid positions at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities was determined in a systematic way using compensation schedules within each Defendant Processor that were aligned with the compensation for the same positions established by other Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 152 relate to other

Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that some of its salary-paid positions are paid higher salaries than other of its salary-paid positions and admits that some of its employees have greater skills and experience than other employees. Mountaire denies the remaining allegation in Paragraph 152.

5. Centralized Determination of Compensation for Poultry Processing Plant Workers

153. Compensation of poultry processing plant employees comprises a significant share of the total operating costs of each Defendant Processor. The second largest cost component of producing poultry for consumption is the cost of poultry processing plant labor, which on average comprises approximately 16 percent of Defendant Processors' total operating costs.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits that the cost of labor comprises a significant share of its total operating costs. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 153 and, therefore, denies the remaining allegations.

154. Decisions regarding the compensation of workers at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities were made exclusively by and at each Defendant Processors' corporate headquarters during the Class Period. This reflects the significance of labor costs to Defendant Processors' overall profitability. While local plant managers sometimes made recommendations for wage adjustments, the hourly wages, annual salaries and employment benefits were ultimately determined and approved by senior executives at each Defendant Processor's corporate headquarters. The fact that decision-making regarding wages, salaries and benefits was centralized in the hands of senior corporate executives materially facilitated the formation and implementation of the compensation-fixing conspiracy alleged herein.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 154 and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 154 premised on the existence of a conspiracy.

155. Multiple former human resources employees of the Defendant Processors have explained that senior executives at corporate headquarters exclusively set the wages, salaries and benefits of processing plant employees across the country in a centralized fashion. For example, a former human resources manager who worked at three different poultry processing plants owned by Tyson, Pilgrim's and Perdue during the Class Period stated that compensation paid to poultry processing plant workers at all three companies was exclusively determined at and by each of the company's corporate offices. Similarly, a former human resources manager who worked at poultry processing plants owned by Perdue and George's stated that wages, salaries and benefits paid to all poultry processing plant employees by both companies were determined at and by each of the company's corporate headquarters.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 155 and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 155 premised on the existence of a conspiracy.

156. During the Class Period, senior executives of the Defendant Processors determined the hourly wages, annual salaries, bonuses and employment benefits for Class Members across the country in a formulaic way, establishing schedules that compensated employees according to their specific positions in the poultry processing plants.

ANSWER: Paragraph 156 contains undefined terms (“senior executives” and “formulaic”) and, therefore, Mountaire denies the allegations containing those terms. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 156 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 156.

157. For example, a former Tyson Foods employee stated that hourly wages set by Tyson Foods’ corporate headquarters were “very tightly structured.” The former Tyson Foods employee explained that Tyson Foods’ corporate office established a “wage scale” for all hourly-paid workers at Tyson poultry processing plants consisting of a starting hourly rate for each position and incremental increases for that starting hourly rate up to the maximum wage. The former Tyson Foods employee noted that the wage structure was determined at the corporate level “before” individual plant managers “even started talking about it.” The former Tyson Foods employee also noted that, under the company’s wage scale, hourly production workers received “consistent” wages within divisions, regardless of the location of the poultry processing plant.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 157 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

6. Limited Role of Labor Unions

158. Approximately one-third of hourly-paid workers at poultry processing plants are members of unions. The United Food and Commercial Workers International Union represents approximately 90% of those unionized workers.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 158 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

159. There is not a significant disparity between the compensation provided to unionized and non-unionized workers in poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities. Collective bargaining agreements often specify a particular wage increase for year one and then often require that, in subsequent years of the agreements, unionized workers are entitled to the average wages per position set by the Defendant Processor. Those average wages are calculated based on what is paid to both unionized and non-unionized workers.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 159 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

7. Demographics of Hourly-Paid Poultry Processing Plant Workers

160. During the Class Period, the compensation provided to hourly-paid workers in poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities was artificially depressed and left many of those workers in poverty. A 2015 report by the nonprofit Oxfam America titled “Lives on the Line” states, “Most workers on the poultry processing line earn wages that place them near or below the poverty line. Wages average around $11 per hour; annual income for most is between $20,000 and $25,000. The federal poverty level for a family of three in 2015 is $20,090; for a family of four it’s $24,250. An average poultry worker supporting two children qualifies for Head Start, SNAP (food stamps), and the National School Lunch Program. In addition, workers often turn to local charities and food banks to supplement their income; in many poultry towns, thrift stores and food banks dominate local storefronts.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and denies that the compensation paid to its employees was artificially depressed. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 160 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

161. Despite the poor compensation, working on a processing line in a poultry plant is one of the most dangerous jobs in the United States. The 2015 report by Oxfam America states that “the rates of injuries and illness” in poultry processing plants “are shockingly high.” The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (“OSHA”) and the United States Department of Labor classify poultry as “a hazardous industry.” In February 2015, OSHA acknowledged that “the incidence rate of occupational illness cases, including musculoskeletal disorders, reported in the poultry industry in 2011 and 2012 has remained high—at more than five times the average for all US industries.” In April 2015, the Centers for Disease Control and the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health reported the results of an evaluation of 191 poultry workers at a plant in Maryland: 76 percent had abnormal results from a nerve conduction test (indicating damage to nerves), and 34 percent had evidence of carpal tunnel syndrome. In 2004, Human Rights Watch reported that poultry workers are 14 times more likely than other workers to suffer debilitating injuries stemming from repetitive trauma—like “claw hand” (in which the injured fingers lock in a curled position) and ganglion cysts (fluid deposits under the skin).

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 161 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

162. In a 2016 report titled “No Relief,” Oxfam America wrote, “While the poultry industry today enjoys record profits and pumps out billions of chickens, the reality of life inside the processing plant remains grim and dangerous. Workers earn low wages, suffer elevated rates of injury and illness, toil in difficult conditions, and have little voice in the workplace.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 162 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

163. Due to the poor compensation, grueling work and high risk of physical injury, many Americans have no interest in employment as an hourly-paid worker in a poultry processing plant. For that reason, Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities often recruit workers who have limited alternative options for employment. Many of the hourly-paid workers recruited and hired by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities in poultry processing plants do not speak English and lack significant education.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 163 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

164. Christopher Cook, author of the book “Diet for a Dead Planet: Big Business and the Coming Food Crisis,” said that poultry processors recruit “a variety of economically desperate and socially isolated populations.” Debbie Berkowitz, OSHA’s former Senior Policy Adviser, said, “It’s an industry that targets the most vulnerable group of workers and brings them in. And when one group gets too powerful and stands up for their rights, they figure out who’s even more vulnerable and move them in.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 164 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

165. Many of the hourly-paid workers recruited and hired by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities are migrant workers, refugees, asylum-seekers, immigrants employed under EB3 visas, prison laborers, and participants in court-ordered substance abuse programs. In a 2015 report, Oxfam America wrote, “The poultry industry has a complicated history of tapping marginalized populations for its workforce. ... Of the roughly 250,000 poultry workers in the US, most are minorities, immigrants, or refugees, and a significant percentage is female.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 165 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

166. For example, Norman Beecher, a former Human Resources manager for co-conspirator Case Farms, actively recruited refugees from the Guatemalan civil war. Mr. Beecher explained to historian Leon Fink, “I didn’t want [Mexicans]. Mexicans will go back home at Christmastime. You’re going to lose them for six weeks. And in the poultry business you can’t afford that. You just can’t do it. But Guatemalans can’t go back home. They’re here as political refugees. If they go back home, they get shot.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 166 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

167. In a 2017 article titled “Exploitation and Abuse at the Chicken Plant,” The New Yorker reported that Case Farms “finds new ways to keep labor costs down. For a time, after the Guatemalan workers began to organize, Case Farms recruited Burmese refugees. Then it turned to ethnic Nepalis expelled from Bhutan, who today make up nearly 35 percent of the company’s employees in Ohio. ... Recently, Case Farms has found a more captive workforce. One blazing morning last summer in Morganton, an old yellow school bus arrived at Case Farms and passed through the plant’s gates, pulling up to the employee entrance. Dozens of inmates from the local prison filed off, ready to work at the plant.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 167 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

8. Demographics of Salary-Paid Poultry Processing Plant Employees

168. To obtain a salaried position at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities, an applicant must satisfy certain education and experience requirements and also speak fluent English. For example, to obtain a position as a first line supervisor, which is one of the lowest paid salaried positions in a poultry processing plant, an applicant must ordinarily have obtained a high school diploma or GED, is strongly preferred to have a Bachelor's degree in a related field (e.g. Poultry Science, Animal Science, Agriculture or Business Management), must have a minimum of 1-3 years of supervisory experience, must possess strong written and verbal communication skills, and is expected to be proficient with computers. Accordingly, only educated, skilled and experienced individuals can obtain salaried positions at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 168 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

B. Conspiracy to Fix Compensation

169. Beginning in January 2009 and continuing to the present, Defendants have conspired with each other to fix and depress the compensation paid to employees of Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities at poultry processing plants in the continental United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 169.

170. Multiple events took place in the poultry industry in 2008 and 2009 that facilitated the formation and implementation of the conspiracy, including:

- a. In 2008, Tyson Foods, the largest poultry processor in the United States, re-subscribed to Agri Stats. Tyson Foods had previously terminated its relationship with, and subscription to, Agri Stats, but the company resumed exchanging detailed and proprietary compensation information with other Defendant Processors through Agri Stats in 2008.
- b. In December 2008, the second largest poultry processor, Pilgrim's, filed for bankruptcy. The bankruptcy resulted from total costs—including labor costs—exceeding the revenue earned by the company. The bankruptcy of Pilgrim's triggered competing poultry processors to consider methods of managing costs in order to avoid the same fate.

- c. In 2009, following the bankruptcy filing of Pilgrim's, the multinational JBS S.A, which is the largest meat processing company in the world, acquired a majority stake in Pilgrim's. The acquisition resulted in a change in the leadership of the human resources department at Pilgrim's.
- d. In April 2009, the human resources committees of the three leading trade associations representing the interests of Defendant Processors—the National Chicken Council, the U.S. Poultry & Egg Association and the National Turkey Federation—merged to form the Joint Poultry Industry Human Resources Council.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and denies the allegations in Paragraph 170 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 170 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

171. Defendants formed and implemented the conspiracy to reduce labor costs and maximize profits. In the absence of the conspiracy, Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities would have competed with each other for labor during the Class Period by offering higher wages, higher salaries and superior benefits to Class Members. This is particularly true given that each Defendant Processor or its subsidiaries owns and operates a poultry processing plant that is within 32 miles of a poultry processing plant owned by another Defendant Processor or another Defendant Processor's subsidiary (and, other than Jennie-O Turkey Store, each Defendant Processor or its subsidiaries owns a plant that is within 13 miles of a poultry processing plant owned by another Defendant Processor or another Defendant Processor's subsidiary), meaning that many workers could easily switch to rival poultry processing plants offering better compensation in a competitive market. The conspiracy permitted Defendant Processors to restrain competition for poultry processing plant workers and thus reduce labor costs and increase profits.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and denies the allegations in Paragraph 171 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 171 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 171.

172. In furtherance of the formation, implementation and enforcement of the conspiracy, Defendants have engaged in the following misconduct:

- a. Conducted "off the books" in-person meetings between senior executives of Defendant Processors during which they fixed and depressed the wages, salaries and benefits paid to workers at poultry processing plants;
- b. Exchanged detailed, timely and competitively sensitive compensation data through Agri Stats and WMS, thereby permitting Defendants to continuously identify how much each Defendant Processor, its subsidiaries, and related entities were paying poultry processing plant workers;
- c. Instructed their poultry processing plants to engage in direct plant-to-plant exchanges of compensation data, including data regarding anticipated future increases to hourly wages.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and denies the allegations in Paragraph 172 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 172 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 172.

“Off the Books” In-Person Meetings to Fix Compensation

173. Beginning on or before 2009, senior executives of Defendant Processors conducted regular in-person meetings to exchange information about, discuss and ultimately fix the wages, salaries and benefits provided to workers at poultry processing plants in the continental United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 173 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 173, to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

174. During each year of the Class Period, senior executives from the Defendant Processors who were responsible for determining the compensation of workers at poultry processing plants conducted an in-person meeting at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida. According to former employees of Perdue and Pilgrim's, those meetings were attended by Directors of Compensation, Directors of Benefits, Compensation Analysts and/or Vice-Presidents of Human Resources from each of the leading poultry processors.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 174 relate to other

Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 174 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

175. These annual meetings were spearheaded and conducted by a secretive “Compensation Committee.” During the Class Period, the leadership of the Compensation Committee rotated among the Defendant Processors. For example, in 2015, the Compensation Committee was co-chaired by Jon Allen, Corporate Human Resources Director of Fieldale Farms, and Bert Neuenschwander, Manager of Compensation for Foster Farms, LLC.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 175 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 175 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

176. While these meetings of the Compensation Committee often occurred around the same time as the U.S. Poultry & Egg Association’s well-publicized annual Human Resources Seminar, the meetings were not part of the association’s published schedule (or any other association’s published schedule). According to a former senior executive of Perdue Farms, the meetings were “off the books” because of the confidential nature of the communications.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 176 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 176 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

177. During the annual “off the books” meetings of the Compensation Committee held at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa during the Class Period, the senior executives of Defendant Processors engaged in two procedures to fix and depress the compensation of Class Members. First, the executives exchanged timely data regarding wages, salaries and benefits paid to Class Members through a comprehensive and detailed survey. Second, the executives held roundtable discussions to agree on and fix compensation paid to Class Members.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and denies the allegations in Paragraph 177 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 177 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 177 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

178. A former employee of Pilgrim’s explained that, each year, both the commission of the annual survey and the off-the-books meeting attended by senior executives of Defendant Processors were fully paid by one of the three largest poultry processors. Those three largest poultry processors—which included Tyson Foods and Pilgrim’s—would alternate payment of the survey and roundtable meeting each year. For example, Tyson Foods would pay for the survey and meeting one year; Pilgrim’s would pay for the survey and meeting the next year; a third Defendant Processor would pay for the survey and meeting the following year; and the cycle would renew.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 178 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

179. During the Class Period, the comprehensive survey was conducted by WMS, a compensation consulting firm based in Pottstown, Pennsylvania. WMS states on its website that it “offers many types of surveys from industry-specific compensation surveys to company-specific job content surveys. Unlike traditional surveys that yield ambiguous answers to generic questions, our company or industry-tailored assessments are based on real programs and issues within your organization or industry that result in answers based on real-time data.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 179 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

180. Prior to each annual “off-the-books” meeting of the Compensation Committee held during the Class Period, each Defendant Processor provided detailed information to WMS regarding wages, salaries and benefits paid to Class Members, including current hourly rates and current salaries for poultry processing positions. A former employee of Pilgrim’s explained that each participating Defendant Processor submitted detailed wage, salary and benefits information to WMS for “all positions within the facilities.” She explained that the compensation data submitted to WMS included average hourly wages or annual salaries for each processing line position as well as the number of people employed in each such position. She further explained that the benefits data submitted to WMS included identifying which health insurance plans were offered, the price of health insurance premiums, how much of that premium was paid by the employer, the value of health insurance deductibles, the number of paid time-off allowances, and the value of 401(k) retirement plan contributions.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 180 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 180 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

181. At the annual “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, WMS randomly assigned a number to each attending Defendant Processor and subsequently circulated the results of the compensation survey to the attendees of the in-person meeting, with the names of the Defendant Processors replaced by their randomly assigned number. At the “off-the-books” meetings, WMS also delivered a PowerPoint presentation that emphasized the average and median wage rates and salaries for each poultry processing plant position based on the survey data provided by the Defendant Processors, thereby establishing benchmarks that facilitated compensation-fixing discussions.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 181 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

182. The results of the WMS survey that were distributed at the “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee provided detailed compensation data for both salaried employees and hourly-paid employees. The section covering salaried employees provided substantial data regarding the salaries and bonuses paid to approximately 40 positions. For each of those approximately 40 salaried positions, the annual WMS survey results provided the following information, aggregated from each of the participating Defendant Processors:

- Base salary
- Bonus pay (the average bonus paid for the last 12 months)
- Total compensation (base salary plus average bonus)
- Actual incentive percent (the average bonus paid as a percent of base compensation)
- Target opportunity percent (the target opportunity as a percent of base compensation)

- Maximum opportunity percent (the maximum opportunity as a percent of base compensation)
- Base salary policy (including the minimum midpoint and maximum policy)

The WMS PowerPoint presentation that accompanied the distribution of the survey results also identified, for each of the approximately 40 salaried positions, how much the following values had increased, by percentage, since the previous year: base salary, midpoint salary and total compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 182 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

183. Another section of the WMS survey results specifically addressed hourly-paid workers at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities. The survey results organized those hourly-paid workers into the following three categories: processing workers, maintenance workers, and refrigeration technicians. For each of those three categories of hourly-paid workers, the annual WMS survey provided the following information, aggregated from each of the participating Defendant Processors:

- Entry level start rate (wage rate when worker is hired)
- Entry level base rate (rate attained within 6-12 months for lowest production scale)
- Weighted average base rate
- Highest level base rate (rate attained within 6-12 months for highest production scale)
- Amount of 2nd Shift Premium (premium paid for working the evening shift)
- Amount of 3rd Shift Premium (premium paid for working the night shift)
- Annual turnover percentage

The WMS survey results organized this wage data on both a national basis and state-by-state basis. The WMS PowerPoint that accompanied the distribution of the survey results also identified how much each of the following increased by percentage since the previous year: entry level start rate, weighted average base rate, and highest level base rate.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 183 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

184. For each and every annual salary and hourly wage reported in the WMS survey results, which covered approximately 45 positions at poultry processing plants, the following details were provided:

- 90th Percentile: Ninety percent of participants pay below the 90th percentile.
- 75th Percentile: Seventy-five percent of participants pay below the 75th percentile.
- Median
- Average
- Weighted Average: The data weighted by the number of employees associated with each participating processor.
- 25th Percentile: Twenty-five percent of participants pay below the 25th percentile.
- 10th Percentile: Ten percent of participants pay below the 10th percentile.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 184 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

185. The WMS survey results also provided exhaustive data about the benefits provided to both salaried and hourly-paid employees at poultry processing plants operated by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities. For example, the WMS survey results provided information about: (1) the value of contributions made to pension plans; (2) the amount of life insurance coverage; (3) the amount of insurance coverage for accidental death and dismemberment; (4) the amount of coverage for long-term disability insurance; (5) the amount and duration of short-term disability insurance; (6) the number of permitted sick leave days; (7) the number of annual holidays; (8) the number of annual vacation days (based on the duration of employment); (9) the amount of health care costs per employee; (10) the amount of cost-sharing for medical insurance plans; (11) the size of deductibles for medical insurance plans; (12) the scope of prescription drug coverage; (13) the scope and cost of dental plans; and (14) parental leave policies.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 185 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

186. Despite WMS's superficial attempts to conceal the sources of specific data in the survey results, it was made apparent to attendees of the off-the-books meetings—by the nature of the data and related conversations between attendees—which Defendant Processor had provided which compensation information. A former employee of Perdue Farms explained that it was not difficult to determine which company reported which compensation data in the WMS survey when “you’re sitting in a meeting and the person across from you [from a competing processor] is reporting on what they do.” Indeed, a former employee of Pilgrim’s said that attendees at the in-person meetings discussed with each other whether they paid a particular position less or more than the WMS survey average and also discussed why they paid certain positions higher or lower wages depending upon the responsibility assigned to that position.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 186 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

187. Defendant Processors used the WMS survey results to modify and harmonize their compensation systems. For example, a former employee of Pilgrim’s said she used the hourly wage and annual salary data from the WMS survey to help establish the hourly wages and annual salary rates at Pilgrim’s. Similarly, a former employee of another poultry processor that attended the off-the-books meetings of the Compensation Committee explained that the company used the WMS survey results to align its wages with those of other poultry processors that participated in the WMS survey.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased, denies the allegations in Paragraph 187 premised on the existence of a conspiracy, and denies the allegations to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 187 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

188. After WMS had circulated the survey results to executives of the Defendant Processors at the annual “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee during the Class Period, those executives engaged in roundtable discussions to review the results of the WMS survey and to determine and agree upon the optimal compensation for poultry processing plant workers, including the optimal benefits. According to a former employee of Perdue Farms, the executives at the off-the-books meetings discussed specific “benefit information” such as health insurance deductibles, paid time off and 401(k) plans. During these roundtable discussions, the senior executives of the Defendant Processors agreed upon and fixed the wages, salaries and benefits that they would provide to employees at poultry processing plants in the continental United States, i.e. Class Members. During those discussions, the senior executives of the Defendant Processors also chastised any Defendant Processor that had deviated—by making unauthorized increases to worker compensation—from wages, salaries and benefits that had been fixed at prior in-person meetings.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and in Paragraph 188, denies the allegations in Paragraph 188 premised on the existence of a conspiracy, and denies the allegations to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 188 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

189. At the “off the books” meetings of the Compensation Committee, executives of the Defendant Processors would specifically discuss, and agree upon, plans for salary raises and bonus budgets for the upcoming year. Such discussions and agreement had the predictable effect of limiting raises and bonuses paid to employees at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and in Paragraph 189, denies the allegations in Paragraph 189 premised on the existence of a conspiracy, and denies the allegations to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 189.

190. Similarly, at those “off the books” meetings, executives of the Defendant Processors would present detailed comparisons about how actual salary changes and bonus budgets from the preceding year compared with the planned salary changes and bonus budgets that had been devised at the previous year’s meeting. Such discussions facilitated the enforcement of the conspiracy to fix the compensation of employees at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and in Paragraph 190, denies the allegations in Paragraph 190 premised on the existence of a conspiracy, and denies the allegations to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 190 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

191. A senior executive from Tyson Foods noted during a private conversation in or around 2018 that the discussions about wages, salaries and benefits at the “off the books” meetings held at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida were so inappropriate and improper that the company would no longer attend them. At the time of that decision, Tyson Foods had been named as a defendant in a different antitrust class action case.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 191 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

192. During the Class Period, representatives from the Defendant Processors regularly attended and participated in the annual “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee at which competitively sensitive compensation data was exchanged and the wages, salaries and benefits of Class Members were discussed and fixed. Indeed, Defendants Processors were prohibited from using the WMS survey to just remotely exchange compensation data. According to a former employee of Keystone who attended some of the meetings, a poultry processor would be expelled from the Compensation Committee if it failed to attend the annual in-person meeting two years in a row.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and in Paragraph 192, denies the allegations in Paragraph 192 premised on the existence of a conspiracy, and denies the allegations to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 192 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

193. As an example of the scope of participation in the annual Compensation Committee meeting, the following Defendants and co-conspirators attended the particular “off-the-books” in- person meeting in April 2017 at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin,

Florida: Tyson Foods, Pilgrim's, Perdue Farms, Koch Foods, Wayne Farms, George's, Inc., Keystone, Fieldale Farms, Simmons Foods, Butterball, Cargill, Cooper Farms, Foster Farms, LLC, Amick Farms, LLC, Case Foods, Inc., OK Foods, Inc., and Allen Harim Foods, LLC. Other Defendants and co-conspirators attended other "off-the-books" annual meetings of the Compensation Committee during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 193 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

194. While most of the Defendant Processors have participated in the WMS surveys and related "off-the-books" meetings of the Compensation Committee since the onset of the Class Period, the Defendant Processors that process more turkey than chicken in the United States—i.e. Butterball, Jennie-O, and Cargill—joined the annual WMS survey and "off the books" meetings for the first time in or around 2015. Prior to joining the WMS survey and related meetings in or around 2015, these Defendant Processors that substantially process turkey exchanged compensation data through another annual survey that was conducted by the National Turkey Federation. According to a former employee of Butterball, the leading turkey processors in the country reported salaried and hourly wages of "fairly specific" positions within their turkey processing plants to the National Turkey Federation each year, which compiled the information and distributed the combined survey results to those turkey processors. The compensation survey conducted by the National Turkey Federation, which only covered turkey processors, helped restrain the compensation of workers in poultry processing plants in the United States prior to 2015.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 194 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 194 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

1. Exchanging Detailed Compensation Data Through Agri Stats

195. In addition to conducting “off the books” in-person meetings during which they discussed and fix wages, salaries and benefits, Defendant Processors also exchanged detailed and competitively sensitive compensation data each month in furtherance of the conspiracy through a subscription to Agri Stats. The agreement to exchange, and the actual exchange of, detailed compensation data through Agri Stats itself restrained compensation competition for processing plant workers in the poultry industry, and greatly facilitated the formation, implementation and enforcement of the conspiracy to depress compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 195 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire admits it transfers certain compensation-related data to Agri Stats for lawful, non-conspiratorial purposes. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 195 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 195.

196. Agri Stats provided an unparalleled ability for Defendant Processors to implement, and monitor each other’s compliance with, their collusive agreement to depress compensation. During the Class Period, Agri Stats facilitated the electronic exchange of terabytes of competitively sensitive compensation data between the Defendant Processors. Agri Stats also monitored and audited this data to ensure it was accurate. By providing this service, Agri Stats became a central part of Defendants’ collusion to suppress compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 196 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 196 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 196.

197. Indeed, a former employee of Perdue Farms during the Class Period stated that Agri Stats was responsible for “collusion in the poultry industry.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 197 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 197 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

198. Agri Stats is a small company, headquartered in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Agri Stats describes itself as a “management reporting and benchmarking company” that “provides consultation on data analysis, action plan development and management practices of participating companies.” Agri Stats’s mission is to “[i]mprove the bottom line profitability for our participants by providing accurate and timely comparative data while preserving confidentiality of individual companies.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 198 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

199. To the outside world, the role of Agri Stats is almost invisible. No uninitiated poultry processing worker could realize the profound anticompetitive impact Agri Stats has had on the poultry processing industry. Agri Stats services are not for the public, and its reports are not publicly available. Agri Stats refuses to sell its information and reports to just any customer. Blair Snyder, the former president of Agri Stats, said in 2009, “Agri Stats has always been kind of a quiet company. There’s not a whole lot of people that know a lot about us obviously due to confidentiality that we try to protect. We don’t advertise. We don’t talk about what we do. It’s always kind of just in the background, and really our specialty is working directly with companies about their opportunities and so forth.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 199 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

200. During the Class Period, Agri Stats partnered with each of the Defendant Processors to electronically collect and exchange timely information regarding compensation of workers at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities in the United States. Upon information and belief, in the wake of a $1.3 billion jury verdict in 2004 against Tyson Foods for a conspiracy to manipulate compensation for cattle farmers, increased fears of antitrust liability led Tyson Foods to withdraw from Agri Stats. However, in or around January 2008, Tyson Foods resumed its subscription with and participation in Agri Stats. Upon information and belief, on or around 2014, Tyson Foods again withdrew from Agri Stats but then again resumed its subscription with and partnership in Agri Stats in or around 2016.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 200 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire admits it transfers certain compensation-related data to Agri Stats for lawful, non-conspiratorial purposes but denies that it “partnered” with Agri Stats. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 200 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 200.

201. During the Class Period, Agri Stats gathered compensation information from, and exchanged information between, more than 95 percent of U.S. poultry processors. Agri Stats's full-market coverage of the poultry processing industry afforded Defendant Processors the power to coordinate and suppress compensation through the use of the internet. During an October 2009 earnings calls for Defendant Sanderson Farms, the former president of Agri Stats, Blair Snyder, said, "All right, who is at Agri Stats? As we talked about, it's a parent company for subsidiary companies that support the industry. The whole goal is to support the industry. We do have 97% of the broiler³ industry participating, about 95% of the turkey industry. . . .The fact that we've got high 90 percentage of both broilers and turkeys, this pretty much represents about anybody that's out there in the broiler industry. . . .[For t]urkey participants, pretty much it's a list of who's who in the turkey business."

ANSWER: Mountaire admits it transfers certain compensation-related data to Agri Stats for lawful, non-conspiratorial purposes. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 201 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. The footnote in Paragraph 201 consists of Plaintiffs' explanation of a term they seek to define, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 201 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 201 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

202. During the Class Period, on a monthly basis, each Defendant Processor provided to Agri Stats the effective salary and wage rates for categories of workers employed at each poultry processing plant owned by the Defendant Processor, its subsidiaries, and related entities in the continental United States. That information was transmitted to Agri Stats through direct electronic submissions by the Defendant Processors. Agri Stats utilized an audit process to verify the accuracy of data regarding each plant.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits it transfers certain compensation-related data to Agri Stats for lawful, non-conspiratorial purposes but denies Plaintiffs' characterization of that data. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 202 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

203. Agri Stats subsequently compiled the compensation data that it received from the Defendant Processors and, each and every month during the Class Period, distributed that disaggregated compilation to each of the subscribing Defendant Processors. The compilation included current effective salaries and hourly wage rates for categories of workers at poultry processing plants throughout the continental United States operated by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities. The compilation also included average salary and hourly wage rates for poultry processing plant positions, both nationwide and broken down by region. Additionally, the compilation identified the productivity of particular processing plant positions, such as birds per person hour and labor hours per pound.

ANSWER: Mountaire admits that Agri Stats reports anonymized information to Mountaire for lawful, non-conspiratorial purposes, but denies Plaintiffs' characterization of those reports and the information in them. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 203 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

204. While Agri Stats claims the distributed data is anonymous, the data is sufficiently granular and disaggregated that executives of Defendant Processors could and did easily and precisely match the distributed compensation data to specific poultry processing plants owned by specific Defendant Processors and their subsidiaries in specific regions.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 204 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 204 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

205. A former employee of Perdue Farms during the Class Period said that Agri Stats data was “supposedly confidential” but he knew from being in the industry and around the “good old boy system” that Perdue Farms and every other poultry processor participating in Agri Stats knew precisely which company reported which data. He added that it is “just bullshit” to suggest that Defendant Processors did not know which company was reporting which compensation data to Agri Stats and explained that Defendant Processors had “been looking at the same numbers for years so they’ve figured out who is who.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 205 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

206. A former employee of Pilgrim’s during the Class Period explained that Agri Stats data could “totally” be reverse engineered to determine which company’s plant was associated with which reported data and that, during meetings at processing plants to review Agri Stats data, colleagues would specifically point out that certain compensation data was associated with a particular competitor's plant in a specific location.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 206 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

207. A former employee of Perdue Farms said that Perdue Farms brought in Agri Stats personnel to teach management "how to extract information" from Agri Stats data.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 207 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

208. Similarly, a former employee of Butterball explained that "you could figure out" which company reported which data to Agri Stats, including compensation data, by speaking with Agri Stats representatives who provided the data. Agri Stats representatives would often assist Defendant Processors in identifying the sources of Agri Stats data, including compensation data.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 208 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 208 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

209. During the Class Period, Agri Stats met with each Defendant Processor and its executives quarterly. Since Agri Stats travelled between each Defendant Processor regularly and discussed the nonpublic, proprietary data at those meetings, Agri Stats was in a unique position to share information among Defendant Processors to enforce the agreement. Additionally, during each year of the Class Period, Agri Stats and its subsidiary Express Markets Inc. held "Broiler Outlook Conferences” that were attended by senior executives of the Defendant Processors and which addressed some of the data collected by Agri Stats from Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 209 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the remaining allegations in Paragraph 209 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

210. As a result of their subscriptions to Agri Stats, during each month of the Class Period, Defendant Processors could determine and knew how much each subscribing Defendant Processor and co-conspirator was paying in compensation to Class Members at their poultry processing plants. Defendant Processors used the Agri Stats exchange of current compensation data in combination with the previously discussed meetings to harmonize the compensation paid to Class Members and to monitor and confirm that no conspirator deviated from the compensation- fixing conspiracy. A former employee of Perdue Farms said that it would be “stupid to think” that Agri Stats did not have “an influence on” poultry processing worker wages.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 210 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the remaining allegations in Paragraph 210 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

211. Agri Stats exchanged detailed compensation information between Defendant

Processors on a monthly basis during the Class Period. This monthly dissemination of compensation data from each of the Defendant Processors allowed the Defendants to efficiently implement the compensation-fixing scheme and systematically monitor and enforce compliance with it. Defendants were able to constantly monitor each other's compensation levels to ensure that no Defendant Processor offered materially more in compensation than another. A former Butterball employee said there was "no question about it" that Agri Stats was used by poultry processors to monitor each other's performance.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 211 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the remaining allegations in Paragraph 211 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

212. During the Class Period, Defendant Processors regularly reviewed Agri Stats compensation data at corporate headquarters and at each individual plant. For example, at poultry processing plants operated by Perdue, Agri Stats data was reviewed at monthly or quarterly plant meetings during the Class Period. Similarly, a former employee of George's Foods, LLC said that Agri Stats data was reviewed during quarterly plant meetings during the Class Period to assess performance. Joe Sanderson, then-CEO and Chairman of Sanderson Farms, stated publicly that "we live and die by Agri Stats." A former employee of Perdue Farms said that the company spent "enormous effort analyzing Agri Stats" and that the CEO was an "Agri Stats guru and nut" who had an "absolute understanding" of the reported Agri Stats data. A former Butterball employee said that "Agri Stats was big" at the company.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 212 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that certain Agri Stats reports were reviewed by Mountaire personnel from time to time, but denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 212 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

213. Defendant Processors regularly relied upon Agri Stats data to set the compensation of workers at poultry processing plants. For example, a former employee at a Pilgrim's plant said that a Pilgrim's corporate officer visited the plant every quarter to review Agri Stats data with plant management; that during those meetings, Agri Stats wage data regarding processing plant workers was extensively compared with the plant's own wage figures; and that, when the Agri Stats data was being reviewed, the shared goal of the corporate officer and the plant managers was to ensure that the Pilgrim's plant was paying wages that were exactly in the middle of the reported Agri Stats wage data. The former employee of Pilgrim's explained that a department at Pilgrim's corporate office was specifically tasked with visiting each poultry processing plant operated by Pilgrim's to ensure that their compensation rates were exactly in the middle of reported Agri Stats data.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 213 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that certain Agri Stats reports were reviewed by Mountaire personnel from time to time, but denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 213 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

214. In 2009, shortly after Pilgrim's had filed for bankruptcy in December 2008, the company engaged in collective bargaining negotiations with United Food and Commercial Workers International Union as part of a reorganization plan. During the course of those negotiations, Pilgrim's executives insisted that labor costs be within the Agri Stats average range in each of the company's domestic poultry processing plants.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 214 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

215. Similarly, a former employee of Butterball explained that the company relied on Agri Stats when engaging in collective bargaining negotiations with unions that represented poultry processing workers. The former Butterball employee explained that the company would use Agri Stats to "show unions the average pay in the industry" and insisted during negotiations that wages "would have to be within the parameters" contained in Agri Stats.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 215 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

216. Notably, Pilgrim's and Butterball only disclosed "average" industrywide pay figures obtained from Agri Stats to the unions when engaging in collective bargaining negotiations—not disaggregated, company-specific or plant-specific Agri Stats wage data or any actual Agri Stats written reports. Because Agri Stats will only sell its reports to processors who also provide data for inclusion in those reports, unions and their members were not able to obtain the Agri Stats reports themselves.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 216 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

217. Defendant Processors knew that they could rely on Agri Stats data to set compensation and enforce the conspiracy because Agri Stats audited the raw data collected from each Defendant Processor. Such auditing ensured that no Defendant Processor or co-conspirator could cheat on the compensation-fixing agreement by covertly providing higher wages, salaries or benefits.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 217 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 217 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

218. To ensure the accuracy of its reports, Agri Stats physically visited each Defendant Processor to collect data. Specifically, Agri Stats would establish an initial data collection process, wherein staff would conduct on-site meetings for approximately one week to identify data locations, files, and formats. Agri Stats staff would then spend approximately three weeks inputting and converting data from the Defendant Processor and preparing auditors for monthly analysis of that data. Moving forward, the Defendant Processor would upload data in real-time to Agri Stats, and internal auditors would examine the uploaded data and perform monthly audits.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 218 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that Agri Stats' personnel have visited Mountaire from time to time. To the extent the remaining allegations in Paragraph 218 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

219. There is no plausible, non-conspiratorial justification for Defendant Processors, with Agri Stats' agreement and participation, to have shared, on a monthly basis, highly confidential and proprietary information about their current compensation rates for poultry processing plant workers, as broken down by position. In a competitive market, such proprietary, competitively sensitive information would remain a closely guarded secret.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations made in Paragraph 219.

220. Sharing the detailed compensation data contained in the Agri Stats reports between Defendant Processors was unnecessary for controlling costs. If a Defendant Processor sought to lower its costs, it was free to do so without first exchanging disaggregated, current, granular, competitively sensitive compensation data with rival poultry processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 220 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies Plaintiffs' characterization of Agri Stats reports. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations of Paragraph 220.

221. The data exchanged between Defendant Processors through Agri Stats bears all the hallmarks of an enforcement mechanism for an anticompetitive compensation scheme. The information contained in Agri Stats reports was current and specific to individual poultry processors and their plants. The information about each Defendant Processor's compensation rates was detailed, including average salary and hourly wage rates for each poultry processing plant position, both nationwide and broken down by region. Moreover, none of the Agri Stats information exchanged between Defendant Processors was publicly available. Indeed, Defendant Processors were required to pay millions of dollars over the Class Period to access the compensation data, and Agri Stats only allowed a Defendant Processor to receive compensation data if that processor reciprocated and shared detailed compensation data. Accordingly, Agri Stats's collection and dissemination of such competitively sensitive compensation data allowed the Defendant Processors to compare and coordinate their compensation decisions and police each other for any violations of the conspiracy as they occurred.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 221 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies Plaintiffs' characterization of Agri Stats reports. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 221.

222. Defendant Processors' monthly exchange of detailed, current, and disaggregated information regarding the compensation of poultry processing workers was anticompetitive. It resulted in lower compensation for all Class Members than each would have received in a competitive market, and it materially increased the profits of Defendants Processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 222.

223. On February 15, 2017, in an article titled "Is the Chicken Industry Rigged?," Bloomberg Businessweek reported, "Armed with Agri Stats data, the biggest chicken producers have been enjoying an unprecedented era of stability and profitability. At Tyson Foods, operating margins in the chicken division have risen sharply since 2009, when they were 1.6 percent, according to SEC filings. The next year they were up to 5.2 percent. After a brief dip, they climbed to 7.9 percent in 2014, an astounding 12 percent in 2015, and 11.9 percent in 2016. A similar trend has been under way at Pilgrim's Pride, where operating margins went from 3.08 percent in 2012 to 14.02 percent in 2014 and 12.77 percent in 2015, according to data compiled by Bloomberg. The recovery from recession accounts for some of the gains, but the poultry industry's profit margins still have been abnormally fat and long-lasting by historical standards."

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in Paragraph 223 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

224. Agri Stats has profited from collecting and reporting Defendants Processors' confidential business information, including by charging substantial fees of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually to each Defendant Processor. During the Class Period, the Defendant Processors paid millions of dollars to Agri Stats.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 224 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that it has paid money to Agri Stats for the services provided by it, denies Plaintiffs' characterization of those payments, and denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 224.

2. Plant-to-Plant Communications About Compensation

225. In furtherance of the compensation-fixing conspiracy, the individual plants owned and operated by the Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities often engaged in bilateral exchanges of compensation information with competing poultry processing plants in the same region. The information obtained from these data exchanges was provided to the corporate headquarters of the respective Defendant Processors, which used this regional information to facilitate the setting of artificially depressed compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations of Paragraph 225 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

226. A former employee of a Pilgrim's poultry processing plant said that corporate headquarters would ask each plant to obtain information about current and future compensation at competing poultry processing plants. That information was often obtained directly from those competing poultry processing plants through information-sharing channels.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations of Paragraph 226 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

227. A former employee of Peco Foods said that human resources managers at local poultry processing plants “shared [compensation information] within the industry” all the time. He explained that “local plants talk” and “knew what competitors are doing and how much they are paying.” He said that human resources staff would often contact their counterparts at a competitor plant and share information about starting pay rates, pay increases and employment benefits. He explained that this “type of thing happened all the time.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations of Paragraph 227 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

228. These plant-to-plant communications often involved the exchange of detailed compensation data regarding future wages (which are not part of Agri Stats reports). For example, these exchanges were sometimes initiated by a Defendant Processor’s plant if a competing poultry processing plant was expanding and thus intended to hire a large number of new workers. In that situation, the plant initiating the exchange of compensation data is seeking to ensure that its wages will be like those at the newly expanded plant, in order to avoid turnover and wage competition for labor.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations of Paragraph 228 and, therefore, denies the allegations. .

229. For example, a Pilgrim’s poultry processing plant in Mayfield, Kentucky requested and obtained the pay rates of plant workers from competitor poultry processing plants in the fall of 2017. A rival Tyson Foods poultry processing plant in nearby Union City, Tennessee was planning to expand its “live hang” operation. As a result, a plant manager at Pilgrim’s Mayfield plant reached out to a counterpart at Tyson Foods’ Union City plant and obtained future pay rates for processing line positions at the newly expanded plant. During the same time period, another manager at Pilgrim's Mayfield plant contacted a counterpart at a nearby Perdue poultry processing plant in Cromwell, Kentucky and obtained that rival plant's pay rates for processing line workers. These and other pay rates obtained from competing poultry processing plants were compiled into a single document and transmitted to senior executives at Pilgrim's corporate headquarters. A former employee of Pilgrim's explained that these kinds of exchanges of compensation data between regional Pilgrim's, Tyson and Perdue plants had been occurring for years.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 229 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

230. A former employee of Butterball explained that the company's poultry processing plant in Mount Olive, North Carolina would regularly exchange hourly wages for specific positions with other nearby poultry processors. The former Butterball employee explained that when the Butterball plant requested hourly wage data from a rival poultry processing plant, the Butterball plant would share its own wage data with that rival processor so that the companies could "compare" their compensation schedules.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 230 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

231. A former employee of Wayne Farms, who worked out of the company's corporate office, was tasked with developing pay bands for processing plant workers. To assist with that project, the former employee distributed surveys to multiple poultry processors in the Southeast region during the Class Period that requested information about compensation paid to processing plant positions. The survey was disseminated through an email listserv to dozens of other poultry processing plants in the Southeast region. Multiple poultry processors returned completed surveys to the former Wayne Farms employee.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 231 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

232. A former employee of Perdue Foods during the Class Period stated that the company sometimes distributed wage surveys to competing poultry processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 232 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

233. A former human resources manager who worked at both a Perdue poultry processing plant and a George's poultry processing plant during the Class Period stated that both plants exchanged data with rival poultry processing plants on an annual basis. The former human resources manager explained that managers of the Perdue plant and the George's plant contacted managers of rival poultry processing plants operated by Pilgrim's, Cargill, and Virginia Poultry Growers Cooperative, Inc. and requested the current hourly wage rates for plant workers as well as any planned future increases to those hourly wage rates. The former human resources manager said, "We would collaborate. We would talk among each other to see what they were doing for pay." The former human resources manager provided the compensation data obtained from rival poultry plants to the corporate headquarters of Perdue or George's.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 233 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

234. Defendant Processors also arranged and conducted tours of each other's poultry processing plants as a means to exchange information. For example, in April 2013, the CEO of Pilgrim's, Bill Lovette; the Chairman of the Board of Perdue Farms, Jim Perdue; and the President of Sanderson Farms, Lampkin Butts, attended a “Chicken Media Summit” in North Carolina that included visits by attendees to a local Sanderson Farms poultry processing plant. Similarly, in April 2015, another “Chicken Media Summit” was held on Maryland’s Eastern Shore, and it included tours of one of Perdue’s local poultry processing plants. Upon information and belief, these and other plant tours included discussion of labor practices.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 234 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the remaining allegations in Paragraph 234 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

3. Plus Factors that Render the Poultry Industry Susceptible to Collusion

235. The poultry processing industry is characterized by numerous features, or plus factors, that render the industry particularly susceptible to collusion and bolster the plausibility of the conspiracy alleged herein. These include: (1) vertical integration; (2) high barriers to entry; (3) industry concentration; (4) fungibility of poultry processing plant labor; (5) inelastic labor supply; (6) a history of government investigations into collusive actions; (7) personal relationships between executives at competing poultry processors; and (8) numerous opportunities to collude.

ANSWER: Paragraph 235 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 235 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 235 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

236. The poultry industry is, by far, the most vertically integrated segment of agriculture. Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities own and operate nearly every stage of poultry production, from the feed mills to the hatcheries to the processing plants. Accordingly, Defendant Processors control the compensation of the vast majority of workers in the entire poultry industry. Defendant Processors can and do leverage that power to form and implement a compensation-fixing conspiracy that precludes employees of poultry processing plants from switching to alternate higher-paying positions within the poultry industry.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 236 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire admits that it owns, controls, or has at least some influence over some, but not all, aspects of the production of chicken that it sells. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 236 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 236.

237. The poultry processing industry is characterized by high entry barriers. These barriers include the high costs of: constructing and operating a processing complex, including hatcheries, feed mills, and processing plants; establishing and operating a distribution network capable of delivering poultry products to grocery chains or wholesalers; developing and investing in a skilled contract-farmer base; and ensuring compliance with onerous federal and state government mandates and regulations. The cost of constructing a poultry processing complex alone is in excess of $100 million. As a result, it is exceptionally expensive and logistically complex for new poultry processors to emerge and compete with Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: Paragraph 237 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 237 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

238. The poultry processing industry is highly concentrated. According to a November 2013 USDA report, "[d]uring the past 16 years, firms in the Broiler industry continued to decrease in number and grow in size, thereby gaining further economies of scale and scope in processing and marketing." According to the National Chicken Council, 55 federally inspected Broiler companies operated in 1995, compared with just 30 such companies operating in 2019. The chicken processing industry's top-eight-firms concentration ratio has increased from 53.1% in 1997 to 79.3% in 2013. Similarly, the turkey processing industry's top-eight-firms concentration ratio exceeds 75%.

ANSWER: Paragraph 238 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 238 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

239. Poultry processors view the plant workers that comprise the Class as fungible. Workers within the same positions are generally interchangeable, permitting Defendant Processors to readily compare and match each other's compensation levels.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 239 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies them. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 239 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

240. The market for poultry processing workers is characterized by inelastic labor supply. Industry-wide changes in compensation rates do not substantially affect the rate of participation in poultry processing positions.

ANSWER: Paragraph 240 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 240 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

241. The history of the poultry processing industry is replete with government investigations and collusive actions. For example, in April 1973, the United States Department of Justice ("DOJ") filed a civil antitrust action against the National Broiler Marketing Association ("NBMA") for conspiring to fix the prices of broilers in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act. The DOJ sought to enjoin the NBMA and its dozens of members, including many of the Defendant Processors, from continuing a conference call program whereby members coordinated the pricing and production of broilers. As for a more recent example, the DOJ is currently investigating the poultry industry for engaging in anti-competitive conduct. In June 2019, the DOJ disclosed that the agency had launched a criminal investigation into whether poultry processors have violated the antitrust laws by fixing the prices of broilers, and the agency issued grand jury subpoenas to several of the Defendant Processors as part of that investigation. On June 3, 2020, the DOJ indicted four executives from Pilgrim's and Claxton Poultry Farms for engaging in a price-fixing conspiracy, and the indictment explains that at least seven poultry processors participated in the conspiracy.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 241 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies them, except that Mountaire admits that in June 2019, the DOJ disclosed that it had launched a criminal investigation but denies that DOJ disclosed the targets or scope of that investigation and Mountaire further admits that on June 3, 2020, DOJ indicted four executives of two Defendants. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 241 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

242. Executives of Defendant Processors have close personal relationships with each other. A former employee of Perdue Farms said that management in the industry formed a “tight-knit circle” and exchanged information frequently. The former Perdue Farms employee noted that, for example, Jim Perdue, chairman of Perdue Farms, and Ronald Cameron, the owner of Mountaire Farms, regularly attend church together. Another former employee, who worked at three different poultry processing plants operated by Tyson, Pilgrim’s and Perdue, said that senior executives of those three companies knew each other very well.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies that Ronald Cameron and Jim Perdue regularly attend church together. To the extent that the remaining allegations in Paragraph 242 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the remaining allegations in Paragraph 242 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them.

243. Defendants have had numerous opportunities to collude. In addition to attending the annual “off-the-books” meetings of the Compensation Committee at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida, the senior executives of Defendant Processors responsible for determining compensation for poultry processing plant workers attended multiple other in-person meetings during the Class Period. Many of those meetings were sponsored by trade associations that advocate for the interests of the Defendant Processors. Those meetings include:

- a. Seminars and Meetings of the U.S. Poultry & Egg Association. The U.S. Poultry & Egg Association describes itself as the world's largest and most active poultry organization, and each Defendant Processor is a member. Each year of the Class Period, the Association held a Human Resources Seminar, often at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida. Many of the Defendant Processors' employees responsible for setting plant worker compensation—including senior executives, Vice Presidents of Human Resources, Directors of Compensation, Directors of Benefits, and Compensation Analysts—regularly attended the Human Resources Seminar. A former employee who worked at three different poultry processing plants operated by Tyson, Pilgrim's and Perdue, said that the attendees at the Association's annual Human Resources Seminar knew each other very well and could have readily discussed compensation of processing plant workers over dinner. In addition, senior executives of most of the Defendant Processors serve on the board of directors of the Association, and that board conducted in-person meetings four times a year during the Class Period.
- b. Meetings of the National Chicken Council. The National Chicken Council exclusively represents chicken processors, and its members account for approximately 95 percent of the chicken sold in the United States. Each Defendant Processor that processes chicken is a member of the National Chicken Council. Senior executives of those Defendant Processors serve on the board of directors of the National Chicken Council, and that board of directors met at least four times a year during the Class Period. In conjunction with some of these meetings, executives from Agri Stats made presentations, and the CEOs of many Defendant Processors held private dinners.
- c. Meetings of The National Turkey Federation. The National Turkey Federation represents turkey processors, and its members account for approximately 95 percent of the turkey sold in the United States. Each Defendant Processor that processes turkey is a member of the National Turkey Federation. Executives of Defendant Processors that process turkey serve on the board of directors of the National Turkey Federation, and that board of directors met at least twice a year during the Class Period.
- d. Meetings of the Joint Poultry Industry Human Resources Council. The Joint Poultry Industry Human Resources Council was formed in 2009 by merging the human resources committees of the U.S. Poultry & Egg Association, National Chicken Council, and the National Turkey Federation. The Joint Poultry Industry Human Resources Council is comprised of senior human resources executives, including executives of the Defendant Processors who formed and implemented the compensation-fixing conspiracy. The Joint Poultry Industry Human Resources Council exclusively focuses on labor issues, such as compensation, and it held an in-person meeting every year during the Class Period, often at the Hilton Sandestin Resort Hotel & Spa in Destin, Florida.

- e. Meetings of the Georgia Poultry Federation. The Georgia Poultry Federation “is a non-profit trade association which represents the poultry industry in Georgia, the nation’s leading broiler producing state.” Many of the Defendant Processors are members of the Georgia Poultry Federation. It conducted meetings at least three times a year during the Class Period, which were attended by executives of those Defendant Processors.
- f. Meetings of the North Carolina Poultry Federation. The mission of the North Carolina Poultry Federation “is to create a favorable climate for business success for everyone involved in the poultry industry in North Carolina.” Many of the Defendant Processors are members of the North Carolina Poultry Federation. It conducted several meetings during each year of the Class Period, which were attended by executives of those Defendant Processors.
- g. Meetings of The Poultry Federation. The Poultry Federation is a non-profit trade organization that represents the poultry and egg industries in Arkansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma. Many of the Defendant Processors are members of The Poultry Federation. It conducted several meetings during each year of the Class Period, which were attended by the executives of those Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 243 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 243 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire admits that it has been a member of certain legitimate trade associations, including the National Chicken Council and the U.S. Poultry & Egg Association, and such associations have meetings from time to time. Mountaire admits that one or more of its employees has attended various trade association meetings but it does not maintain a centralized list of employees who attend meetings such as those alleged and, therefore, lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations at this time and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of any remaining allegations in Paragraph 243 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

C. Market Power of Defendant Processors

1. Direct Evidence of Market Power

244. The strongest evidence that Defendant Processors and co-conspirators collectively possessed the requisite power to suppress compensation for poultry plant workers is that they actually suppressed such compensation during the Class Period.⁴ As detailed above in section VI(B), numerous former employees confirmed that Defendants and co-conspirators used a three-pronged strategy to suppress salaries, wages, and benefits paid to poultry processing workers. First, a secretive “Compensation Committee” convened annual “off the books” meetings in Florida, where executives of Defendant Processors and co-conspirators discussed the results of the highly detailed WMS survey and agreed what they would pay Class Members. The Defendant Processors ensured that each member of the Compensation Committee adhered to the agreement. For example, during the annual “off the books” meetings, executives of the Defendant Processors would present detailed comparisons about how actual salary changes and bonus budgets from the preceding year compared with the planned salary changes and bonus budgets that had been collectively devised at the previous year’s meeting. Defendants and co-conspirators could not carry out such plans in the absence of collective market power.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 244 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 244 relate to other

⁴ Such “buyer” market power is also referred to as “monopsony power.”

Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent any remaining allegations in Paragraph 244 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

245. Second, Defendant Processors and co-conspirators exchanged detailed compensation information regarding processing plant workers through Agri Stats. Former employees of Defendant Processors and co-conspirators confirmed that those companies used Agri Stats data to ensure that they were depressing compensation for poultry processing plant workers. For instance, a former Pilgrim's employee explained that corporate officers would visit Pilgrim's processing plants quarterly to ensure that the plants were not compensating workers more than the "middle" amount reported to Agri Stats. Similarly, a former employee of Butterball explained that, during union negotiations, the company would insist that wages "would have to be within the parameters" contained in Agri Stats. The ability of Defendant Processors and co-conspirators to keep wages within Agri Stats "parameters" demonstrates their collective market power.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 245 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 245 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent any remaining allegations in Paragraph 245 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

246. Third, Defendant Processors and co-conspirators frequently engaged in bilateral exchanges of current and future wage data. For example, a former employee of Butterball explained that the company's processing plant in Mount Olive, North Carolina would regularly exchange hourly wages for specific positions with other nearby poultry processors. The former Butterball employee explained that when the Butterball plant requested hourly wages from a rival poultry processing plant, the Butterball plant would share its own wage data with that rival processor so that the companies could "compare" their compensation. Similarly, former employees of Wayne Farms and Perdue explained that those companies disseminated wage surveys directly to other poultry processors during the Class Period. As one former human resources manager of poultry processing plants operated by Perdue and George's put it, "We would collaborate." This collaboration could not have been effective if Defendant Processors and co-conspirators did not have the power to suppress wages as a group.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 246 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 246 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent any remaining allegations in Paragraph 246 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

247. More broadly, if the Defendant Processors' and co-conspirators' long-running three-pronged conspiracy to suppress wages was unworkable because they lacked collective market power, they would not have conspired in the first place, and certainly would not have continued doing so.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 247 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 247 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 247 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies them.

248. Defendant Processors' and co-conspirators' meetings and data exchanges were costly: they paid for the WMS survey and Agri Stats reports, spent time and money answering detailed survey questions, paid for senior human resource executives to attend in-person meetings in Florida, and exposed themselves to legal liability. Defendant Processors and co-conspirators would not have continued to incur these annual expenses for the entire Class Period—a solid decade—unless their compensation-fixing and information exchanges were paying dividends in the form of reduced salaries, wages, and/or benefits for poultry processing plant workers. This indicates that Defendant Processors and co-conspirators believed and acted as though they had the market power to profitably suppress wages.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 248 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 248 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 248 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent any remaining factual allegations in Paragraph 248 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

2. Indirect Evidence of Market Power

a. Product or Services Market

249. The relevant market is the labor market for employment at poultry processing plants in the continental United States (“Relevant Market”).

ANSWER: Paragraph 249 consists of Plaintiffs’ explanation of a defined term and Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 249 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

250. A hypothetical cartel that controlled a large share of the Relevant Market, as Defendant Processors and co-conspirators collectively do here, could profitably suppress compensation paid to workers at poultry processing plants below competitive levels. In such circumstances, poultry processing workers would not be able to defeat such artificial compensation suppression by switching employment to other non-conspiring poultry processors.

ANSWER: Paragraph 250 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 250 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

251. There are no close economic and/or functional substitutes for employment at poultry processing plants from the perspective of workers at those plants. As discussed above, many hourly-paid workers in poultry processing plants do not speak English and lack significant education. Accordingly, many hourly-paid workers in poultry processing plants cannot easily obtain stable employment at a similar level of compensation outside the poultry industry.

ANSWER: Paragraph 251 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 251 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent Paragraph 251 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations, except Mountaire admits that some of its hourly-paid workers do not speak English and lack significant education.

252. Employees in the industry have continually noted these language and educational challenges that many poultry processing workers face. A former employee of Pilgrim's during the Class Period explained that many poultry processing plant workers never graduated from high school and did not speak English and thus were limited from pursuing work outside a poultry processing plant. A former employee of George's Foods, LLC during the Class Period explained that poultry processors "catered" to workers who did not speak English and lacked a strong educational background and that it would be difficult for poultry processing plant workers to find employment outside a poultry processing plant because of "communication issues." Similarly, a former human resources manager at a Tyson Foods poultry processing plant explained that poultry processors recruited and thrived from an "underprivileged" workforce that had difficulty communicating in English and had a very limited ability to obtain jobs outside the poultry industry. Indeed, Tyson Foods has formally recognized this challenge faced by its workforce by instituting a program to "enable hourly employees to access English as a second language." Thus, many unskilled or low-skilled jobs such as retail sales, fast food or some manual labor jobs—which require proficiency in English—are not a reasonable substitute for the majority of workers in the Relevant Market.

ANSWER: Paragraph 252 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 252 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent Paragraph 252 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them.

253. In addition, unskilled and low-skilled jobs are not reasonable substitutes for work at poultry processing plants because those jobs rarely pay more than the minimum wage. By contrast, poultry plant workers earn significantly more than most minimum wages. In part, this is because poultry processing workers have some industry and employer-specific skills, and employers in the poultry processing industry are willing to pay for those skills. Additionally, as explained above, poultry processing work is extremely dangerous. The types of workers who choose to work in a poultry processing plant prefer to receive extra pay for dangerous labor, instead of accepting lower wages at safer positions. This indicates that unskilled and low-skilled jobs are not reasonable economic substitutes for employment in the Relevant Market, which mostly pays hourly wages well above the minimum wage (but at the same time, less than what poultry processing plant workers would make in a competitive market).

ANSWER: Paragraph 253 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 253 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies them.

254. Similarly, employment at non-poultry meat processing plants is not a reasonable substitute for employment in the Relevant Market. For example, beef processing plants pay processing plant workers substantially more than employers in the Relevant Market—on average beef processing plants pay 25% to 35% higher compensation to plant workers than employers pay in the Relevant Market. This indicates that workers in the Relevant Market cannot readily switch to a job at a beef processing plant because, if such a switch was readily available, employers in the Relevant Market would have had to substantially increase their compensation so as not to lose too many employees to beef processors. The fact that such a significant wage differential can be maintained indicates that beef processing jobs require skills and/or worker attributes that cannot be readily obtained by workers in the Relevant Market, or that beef processing jobs are more dangerous and thus less appealing to workers in the Relevant Market. These differences indicate that beef processing jobs are not functionally interchangeable with jobs in the Relevant Market.

ANSWER: Paragraph 254 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 254 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies them.

255. There are also significant lock-in effects that result from developing skills and experience specific to the Relevant Market. For example, once on the job for an appreciable period, poultry processing plant workers learn new skills, such as those necessary for effectively deboning birds on processing lines. Wayne Farms recognizes this on its website where the company advertises to potential workers that they can "develop new skills on the job." Defendant Processors value these skills in experienced poultry processing plant workers and recognize that such skills are differentiated from those necessary for other jobs. For example, Tyson Foods' "Talent Strategy" seeks to hire poultry workers with "the differentiated capabilities and skills that we need for the future." Perdue Farms notes its poultry workers' "unique talents."

ANSWER: Paragraph 255 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 255 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to another Defendant and/or third party, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent Paragraph 255 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 256.

256. Those skills are not transferrable to other jobs even if those other jobs may be generally termed as low-skilled. For example, the skill of deboning a chicken or turkey makes a poultry processing plant worker a more valuable employee for poultry processing companies, but not for other companies seeking low-skilled manual labor. As a result, workers in the Relevant Market receive higher wages as they gain more experience working in poultry processing plants (even if those wages are suppressed by the conspiracy). Indeed, each Defendant Processor materially increases wages to processing plant workers according to their level of experience, which correlates to their skill level and productivity. Those higher wages received for greater skill and experience reduce the substitutability of jobs outside of the Relevant Market and make remaining in poultry processing plant positions more attractive to plant workers. In other words, those higher wages increase the switching or transaction costs of seeking a position outside the Relevant Market that would not value the skills obtained by the poultry processing plant worker.

ANSWER: Paragraph 256 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 256 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 256.

257. These lock-in affects arising from the development of job-specific skills apply with additional force to salaried poultry processing workers in the Class. These salaried positions require even more training and skills specific to poultry processing that would not be transferable to occupations outside of the Relevant Market and therefore make it even more difficult for salaried poultry processing workers to switch to occupations outside of the Relevant Market.

ANSWER: Paragraph 257 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 257 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies them.

258. Poultry processing plant workers, like most laborers, cannot withhold their services until a later date as a means of negotiating for higher compensation. They depend on a regular income. This weakens their negotiating position with poultry processing employers and enhances the Defendant Processors' market power.

ANSWER: Paragraph 258 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 258 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies them.

259. Recent empirical econometric work has found that many low-skilled occupations face sufficiently inelastic labor supply curves that the occupation would be considered a relevant antitrust market that would satisfy the hypothetical monopsonist test. One recent paper analyzed low-skilled labor markets defined by the 6-digit Standard Occupational Classifications (SOC) tracked by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and found that for each such occupation, a hypothetical monopsonist would find it profitable to decrease wages by at least 5% or more.⁵ The paper demonstrates economically that low-skilled occupations can be relevant antitrust markets and thus supports the plausibility of the Relevant Market.

ANSWER: Paragraph 259 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent

⁵ Jose Azar, Steven Berry, and Iona Marinescu, Estimating Labor Market Power (Sep. 18, 2019) available at https://papers.ssrn.com/sol3/papers.cfm?abstract_id=3456277.

Paragraph 259 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies them.

b. Geographic Market

260. The relevant geographic market is the continental United States. A slight decrease in compensation from the competitive level could be imposed collectively by the poultry processors in the continental United States without causing too many poultry workers to leave the country or move to a different occupation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies that the relevant geographic market is the continental United States. The second sentence of Paragraph 260 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 260 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent Paragraph 260 purports to make factual allegations, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

261. Defendant Processors set their compensation and recruiting policies for poultry processing plant workers largely on a nationwide basis, and therefore treat such workers as if they were participating in a nationwide labor market. Each Defendant Processor establishes compensation for workers at poultry processing plants at identical or near identical levels, regardless of the region, state, county or locality in which those plants are located. Because each Defendant Processor establishes the same, or nearly the same, compensation for workers at poultry processing plants regardless of geographic region, state, county or locality, conduct that suppresses compensation to those workers in one poultry processing plant location would necessarily suppress compensation to workers employed in all of the poultry processing plants owned by the Defendant Processor, its subsidiaries, and related entities throughout the continental United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations of Paragraph 261 and, therefore, denies them. Paragraph 261 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 261 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent Paragraph 261 purports to make factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations.

c. High Collective Market Share and Monopsony Power

262. Defendant Processors and co-conspirators collectively possess market and monopsony power in the Relevant Market in that they have the power, collectively, and through the challenged conduct, to profitably suppress compensation to workers at poultry processing plants below competitive levels.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies that the "Relevant Market" is a relevant antitrust market or that Mountaire has "market and monopsony power" in any relevant antitrust market. Paragraph 262 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 262 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent Paragraph 262 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations. Mountaire denies any remaining allegations of Paragraph 262.

263. Defendant Processors and co-conspirators pay compensation to workers at poultry processing plants that comprise more than 90 percent of the Relevant Market.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 263 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire further denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations of Paragraph 263 and, therefore, denies them.

D. Anticompetitive Effects and Injury Suffered by Class Members

264. As a result of Defendants' anticompetitive conduct alleged herein, competition between Defendant Processors over compensation was restrained or eliminated in the market for workers in poultry processing plants in the continental United States during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 264 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 264 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies that "the market for workers in poultry processing plants in the continental United States" is a relevant antitrust market. To the extent Paragraph 264 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them. To the extent Paragraph 264 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to another Defendant and/or third party, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

265. As a result of Defendants' anticompetitive conduct alleged herein, the compensation of workers in poultry processing plants in the continental United States were fixed, stabilized, or maintained at artificially depressed levels during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 265 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 265 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 265 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them. To the extent Paragraph 265 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to another Defendant and/or third party, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 265.

266. The purpose of the conspiratorial conduct of the Defendants was to depress, fix, or maintain the compensation of workers in poultry processing plants in the continental United States and, as a direct and foreseeable result of the conspiratorial conduct, Plaintiffs and the Class received compensation at artificially-depressed rates during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 266 premised on the existence of a conspiracy or “conspiratorial conduct.” Paragraph 266 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 266 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them. To the extent Paragraph 266 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to another Defendant and/or third party, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 266. To the extent Paragraph 266 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

267. By reason of the alleged violations of the antitrust laws, Plaintiffs and the Class have sustained injury to their businesses or property, having received lower compensation during the Class Period than they would have received in the absence of Defendants’ illegal contract, combination, or conspiracy. As a result, Plaintiffs and the Class have suffered damages.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 267 premised on the existence of a conspiracy or “alleged violations of the antitrust laws.” Paragraph 267 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 267 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them. To the extent Paragraph 267 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to another Defendant and/or third party, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 267.

268. This is an injury of the type that the antitrust laws were meant to punish and prevent.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 268 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 268 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 268 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them. To the extent Paragraph 268 contains factual allegations that purport to relate to another Defendant and/or third party, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations of Paragraph 268.

269. An analysis conducted by economists retained by Plaintiffs shows that the discrepancy between the earnings of workers employed by food manufacturers broadly (including manufacturers of grain, sugar, dairy, seafood and other foods) and the earnings of workers employed by poultry processors materially increased during the Class Period. To conduct the analysis, the economists relied on publicly available data obtained from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, which maintains distinct compensation data for poultry processing workers (i.e. NAICS Code 311615). According to the preliminary economic analysis, the difference between the weekly earnings of workers employed by food manufacturers broadly and the weekly earnings of workers employed by poultry processors was, on average, $103.79 during the ten-year period prior to the Class Period, and subsequently increased to, on average, $127.30 during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 269—all of which concern an undisclosed study by unidentified “economists retained by Plaintiffs”—and therefore, denies them.

270. During the Class Period, as a result of the conspiracy to restrain and depress compensation, the hourly wages of poultry processing plant workers employed by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities often only increased approximately 25 cents a year. These annual “raises” for poultry processing plant workers were perceived by Defendant Processors to be merely cost-of-living adjustments, rather than material increases to compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 270 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 270 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 270 relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them.

271. A former human resources manager at a Tyson Foods poultry processing plant explained that, in practice, these limited annual raises to hourly wages rarely increased total compensation for poultry processing workers because those raises were effectively offset by annual increases to health insurance premiums. According to the former Tyson Foods human resources manager, poultry processing plant workers “really never get ahead” of their starting wage.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 271 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

272. While compensation paid to Plaintiffs and the Class was artificially depressed during the Class Period, the productivity of those workers greatly increased. A primary reason for that increase in productivity is that processing line speeds were substantially increased. Between 1999 and 2015, line speeds increased by 54%, poultry production increased by nearly 35%, but inflation-adjusted hourly wages for poultry processing workers, in fact, decreased by more than 1%. As a result, even while Plaintiffs and the Class worked harder during the Class Period, the compensation received by them was artificially depressed. Thus, while labor productivity in poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities has substantially increased over the past two decades, labor costs have declined for Defendant Processors during that same period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 272 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of any remaining allegations in Paragraph 272 and, therefore, denies the allegations.

273. In a competitive market, Defendant Processors would have competed to recruit, hire and retain workers during the Class Period by offering higher wages, higher salaries and superior benefits, and many Class Members would have switched employment to different poultry processors as a result of that competition for labor. Yet, by entering into the alleged conspiracy, Defendant Processors were able to reduce and stabilize turnover rates. Defendants' scheme harmonized compensation to Class Members across the poultry processing industry and thus reduced the incentive for Class Members to switch employment between Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 273 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 273 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 273 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

274. The effects and injuries caused by Defendants' anticompetitive agreement commonly impacted all workers at poultry processing plants owned by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities in the continental United States because Defendant Processors valued internal equity, i.e. the idea that similarly situated employees should be compensated similarly. Each Defendant Processor established a pay structure to accomplish internal equity. Each Defendant Processor established narrow compensation ranges for poultry processing plant workers in the continental United States with similar job positions and similar levels of experience and also maintained certain compensation differentials between different poultry processing plant positions. For example, a former employee of Perdue Foods explained that hourly wage increases for positions in processing plants were made company-wide.

Similarly, a former employee of Tyson Foods explained that the company paid poultry processing plant workers “consistently” within each division and position, regardless of the plant’s location.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 274 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 274 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or economic theory legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 274 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 274.

VII. STATUTES OF LIMITATIONS DO NOT BAR PLAINTIFFS’ CLAIMS

A. Continuing Violation

275. During the Class Period, Defendants’ conspiracy was a continuing violation in which Defendants repeatedly invaded Plaintiffs’ and Class Members’ interests by adhering to, enforcing, and reaffirming the anticompetitive agreement described herein. Indeed, Defendants continue to exchange competitively sensitive information regarding, and to discuss and reach agreement on, compensation to pay Class Members through the present.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 275 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 275 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 275 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent Paragraph 275 makes factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them.

276. Defendants' continuing adherence to, enforcement of, and reaffirmation of the anticompetitive agreement throughout the Class Period was and is consummated through, among other conspiratorial acts, "off the books" in-person meetings conducted each year to discuss and fix compensation to Class Members, the monthly exchange of competitively sensitive compensation data through Agri Stats, the renewal of subscriptions to Agri Stats, participation in annual compensation surveys operated by WMS, and other communications between Defendants.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 276 premised on the existence of a conspiracy or "conspiratorial acts." Paragraph 276 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 276 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent Paragraph 276 makes factual allegations that purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies them.

B. Fraudulent Concealment

1. Plaintiffs Did Not and Could Not Have Discovered Defendants' Misconduct

277. Plaintiffs and other Class Members had neither actual nor constructive knowledge of the facts constituting their claim for relief. Plaintiffs and Class Members did not discover and could not have discovered through the exercise of reasonable diligence, the existence of the conspiracy alleged herein until shortly before filing this Complaint. Defendants engaged in a secret conspiracy that did not reveal facts that would put Plaintiffs or the Class on inquiry notice that there was a conspiracy to fix and depress compensation paid to workers in poultry processing plants.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 277 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 277 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 277 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

278. Defendants' anticompetitive conspiracy, by its very nature, was self-concealing. Poultry processors are not exempt from antitrust regulation, and thus, Plaintiffs reasonably considered the poultry processing industry to be competitive until recently. Accordingly, a reasonable person under the circumstances would not have been alerted to begin to investigate the legitimacy of wages, salaries or benefits paid by Defendant Processors to workers in poultry processing plants in the continental United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 278 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 278 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 278 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations, except Mountaire agrees that "poultry processors are not exempt from antitrust regulation."

279. Plaintiffs exercised reasonable diligence. Plaintiffs and the other Class Members could not have discovered the alleged conspiracy at an earlier date by the exercise of reasonable diligence because of the deceptive practices and techniques of secrecy employed by Defendants and co-conspirators to conceal their combination.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 279 because they are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 279 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 279 contains factual allegations that relate to Plaintiffs, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 279.

2. Defendants Actively Concealed the Conspiracy

280. Throughout the Class Period, Defendants effectively, affirmatively, and fraudulently concealed their unlawful combination and conspiracy from Plaintiffs and the other Class Members.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 280 because they are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 280 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 280 contains factual allegations that relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 280.

281. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein was fraudulently concealed by Defendants by various means and methods, including, but not limited to conducting secret "off the books" meetings, engaging in surreptitious communications that do not create or involve written records, exchanging competitively sensitive compensation data through a nonpublic and proprietary system, and concealing the existence and results of commissioned compensation surveys. Defendants formed and implemented the combination and conspiracy in a manner specifically designed to avoid detection.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 281 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 281 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 281 contains factual allegations that relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 281.

282. During the Class Period, Defendants affirmatively and falsely represented that they paid wages, salaries and benefits reflective of a competitive market for labor. For example, in October 2015, in response to a report from Oxfam America decrying compensation and working conditions in chicken processing plants in the United States, Tyson Foods said in a statement, "We believe in fair compensation, a safe and healthy work environment and in providing workers with a voice." Perdue Farms also responded to the Oxfam America report by stating in October 2015 that the company provides "competitive wages" above minimum wage. That same month, the National Chicken Council and U.S. Poultry & Egg Association—the two leading trade associations that are controlled by and represent the interests of Defendant Processors—issued a joint statement that provides: "Poultry processing plants compete for the local workforce and therefore must pay competitive wages and offer competitive benefits. ... Poultry processing companies offer competitive insurance benefits that includes family and dependent coverage." These false representations were used to conceal the conspiracy.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 282 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 282 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 282 contains factual allegations that relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 282.

283. Defendant Processors also advertised to potential processing plant employees that the compensation offered and provided was "competitive," i.e. the result of competition in the labor market for poultry processing plant employees. For example, Tyson Foods claims in public advertisements that its compensation is "competitive." The company further states on its website, under the title "Fair Compensation": "We offer employees competitive pay and benefits..." Similarly, Perdue Farms advertises on its website: "We offer competitive wages and a comprehensive benefits package..." Wayne Farms advertises on its website that it offers "comprehensive and competitive" benefits. The Chief Operating Officer of Sanderson Farms called the company's wages and benefits "among the most comprehensive offered in the poultry industry, or for that matter, any industry." Indeed, all Defendant Processors have made similar statements that falsely indicated Defendant Processors' compensation for poultry processing plant workers was determined through genuine competition in the labor market with other Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 283 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 283 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 283.

284. Defendants took affirmative and specific steps to fraudulently conceal each component of the compensation-fixing conspiracy. As to the in-person meetings of the Compensation Committee, Defendants engaged in several actions to keep those meetings concealed. First, the mere existence of the Compensation Committee was secret. Second, according to a former executive of Perdue Farms, the annual meetings of the Compensation Committee were kept “off the books” due to the “confidential nature of communications.” While the Compensation Committee frequently met at the same time as the U.S. Poultry & Egg Association’s well-publicized annual Human Resources Seminar, the meetings were not part of the association’s schedule, departing from standard practice. Third, Defendant Processors required in-person attendance at Compensation Committee meetings, rather than permitting the remote exchange and discussion of compensation data, thus ensuring that attendees discussed and fixed compensation in a confidential setting without leaving a paper trail.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 284 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 284 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 284.

285. As to the WMS surveys, Defendants concealed their existence and contents from the Plaintiffs and the public. WMS only released the compensation survey results at the “off the books” in-person meetings of the Compensation Committee, which were attended exclusively by employees of Defendant Processors and co-conspirators. Furthermore, Defendant Processors and WMS employed sham data anonymization techniques to create the illusion of legality and conceal the true purpose of the data exchanges: to facilitate a compensation fixing scheme. At the annual “off the books” meetings, WMS circulated the results of the annual survey with the names of Defendant Processors replaced by a randomly assigned number, yet attendees could readily ascertain which poultry processor had reported which compensation data. A former Perdue Farms executive explained that attendees could determine which company reported which compensation data in the WMS survey because “you’re sitting in a meeting and the person across from you [from a competing processor] is reporting on what they do.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 285 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 285 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 285.

286. Defendants concealed their exchange of compensation data through Agri Stats, as well as the nature and contents of that exchanged data, from Plaintiffs and the public in multiple ways. First, Agri Stats concealed its work on behalf of the poultry industry. In 2009, the President of Agri Stats, Blair Snyder, commented on the secretive nature of Agri Stats: “There’s not a whole lot of people that know a lot about us obviously due to confidentiality that we try to protect. We don’t advertise. We don’t talk about what we do.” Indeed, when Businessweek sought to interview the President of Agri Stats for an article published in February 2017, he responded by email, “We view our operations and strategy as confidential and proprietary information and not appropriate to discuss in a public forum.” The Businessweek article notes that the data maintained by Agri Stats is “remarkable not only for its size but also for the secrecy with which it’s kept.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 286 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 286 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 286.

287. Second, only poultry processors willing to upload their own detailed and disaggregated compensation data, and willing to pay millions of dollars in fees to Agri Stats, could access the compensation data collected and distributed by Agri Stats during the Class Period. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and other processing plant workers could not possibly have obtained access to the data that Agri Stats provided to Defendant Processors during the Class Period. In 2019, The Guardian obtained a “leaked” copy of a Agri Stats report and described some of its contents; the article, which was published in August 2019, describes Agri Stats as “a secretive data-sharing firm” and notes that “none of the information in Agri Stats’ reports is available to the farmers” which “puts them at a severe disadvantage when they try to negotiate contracts or ask for pay rises.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 287 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 287 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 287.

288. Third, Agri Stats employed sham anonymization techniques to create the illusion of anonymity and of legality. While Agri Stats claimed the data distributed each month was anonymous, that data was sufficiently granular and disaggregated that executives of Defendant Processors could and did easily match the distributed compensation data to specific poultry processing plants in specific regions. A former Perdue Farms employee said that Agri Stats data was “supposedly confidential” but that Perdue Farms and every other subscribing poultry processor knew precisely which company reported which data. These sham anonymization techniques assured that if an Agri Stats report was ever leaked to the public or government enforcement authorities, the report would on its surface appear to be anonymized.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 288 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 288 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of its claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 288 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 288.

289. Fourth, Agri Stats fraudulently concealed and expressly denied that the data it exchanged between poultry processors could be reverse engineered by those companies’ executives. According to an article published in The Guardian in August 2019, Agri Stats has denied that “the data in its reports were identifiable to industry insiders,” claiming that “it preserves confidentiality among processors by masking the sources of the data it reports” and thus “couldn’t be used by competitors in an anti-competitive manner.” Agri Stats knew these statements to be false. According to the same 2019 article, Rita Korn, a former senior executive assistant and office manager for Agri Stats, stated that executives of poultry processors could readily determine which poultry plant had reported which data: “Anybody that followed those numbers and had a brain in their head—if they were in top management at one of those places—they knew who was who in those books. Your job is to figure out who was who in this book. I think they cared more about that than they did their own numbers.”

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 289 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 289 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 289.

290. Fifth, when engaging in collective bargaining negotiations, Defendant Processors did not disclose disaggregated, plant-specific Agri Stats wage data to unions or their members. A former employee of a co-conspirator poultry processor explained that Agri Stats data was “extremely confidential” and only accessed by “executives and Agri Stats themselves” and that the processor would not disclose Agri Stats reports to union members because then those members would know “how profitable the company is” and how it is maximizing yield at the lowest cost. Accordingly, when Defendants Processors mentioned Agri Stats during collective bargaining negotiations, they only cited average, industrywide Agri Stats figures.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 290 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 290 relate to other

Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 290.

291. Disclosures during union negotiations of the mere “average” industrywide pay figures did not and could not put those unions or their members on any type of notice of the possibility that Defendant Processors were unlawfully exchanging disaggregated compensation data. Rather, at most, the disclosures could only inform the unions and their members of the fact that poultry processors were using a benchmarking company’s data to inform their wages, which is insufficient to permit a circumstantial inference of collusion.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 291 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 291 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 291.

292. Finally, Defendant Processors also concealed the exchanges of current and future compensation data between rival poultry processing plants from the Plaintiffs and the public. When managers of poultry processing plants operated by Defendant Processors or their subsidiaries collected current or future wage rates from managers of competing poultry processing plants, that exchanged data was not disclosed to processing plant workers. Indeed, multiple Class Members have made clear that they were never informed by their employers of wage rates at rival poultry processing plants, let alone provided copies of compensation schedules comparing those rates. Instead, plant managers who exchanged such compensation data transmitted that data directly to, and only to, their respective corporate headquarters, where executives used the information to facilitate the setting of company-wide wages.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 292 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 292 relate to other Defendants, Plaintiffs, and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 292.

293. By virtue of Defendants' fraudulent concealment of their wrongful conduct, the running of any statute of limitations has been tolled and suspended with respect to any claims and rights of action that Plaintiffs and the other Class Members have as a result of the unlawful combination and conspiracy alleged in this Complaint.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 293.

VIII. CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

294. Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves, and on behalf of the members of the following class, under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 23(a), (b)(2) and (b)(3):

All persons employed by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries and/or related entities at poultry processing plants in the continental United States from January 1, 2009 until the present.

ANSWER: Paragraph 294 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 294 contains characterization or description of provisions of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the provisions referenced in or underlying Paragraph 294 speak for themselves, and Mountaire denies any characterization or description that is inconsistent therewith. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 294 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies them.

295. The following persons and entities are excluded from the proposed Class: complex managers, plant managers, human resources managers, human resources staff, office clerical staff, guards, watchmen, and salesmen; Defendants, co-conspirators, and any of their subsidiaries, predecessors, officers, or directors; and federal, state or local governmental entities.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 295 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 295 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 295 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

296. The Class definition provides clear, objective criteria understood by Class Members and Defendants, and it allows the parties to identify the members of the Class.

ANSWER: Paragraph 296 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 296 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

297. Subject to additional information obtained through further investigation and discovery, the Class definition may be expanded or narrowed.

ANSWER: Paragraph 297 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are “class members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 297 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

298. The Class is so numerous that joinder of all members in this action is impracticable. Plaintiffs are informed and believe, and on that basis allege, that the proposed Class contains hundreds of thousands of similarly situated workers.

ANSWER: Paragraph 298 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are “class members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 298 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

299. The Class is readily identifiable and is one for which records should exist.

ANSWER: Paragraph 299 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are “class members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 299 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

300. Plaintiffs’ claims are typical of those of the Class. Plaintiffs’ claims arise from the same common course of conduct giving rise to the claims of the Class and the relief sought is common to the Class.

ANSWER: Paragraph 300 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are “class members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 300 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

301. Plaintiffs and Class Members were injured by the same unlawful conduct, which resulted in them receiving less in compensation for working in poultry processing plants than they would have in a competitive market.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 301 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Paragraph 301 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are “class members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 301 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies them.

302. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect and represent the interests of the Class. The interests of the Plaintiffs are aligned with, and not antagonistic, to the Class.

ANSWER: Paragraph 302 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are “class members” and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 302 contains factual allegations, Mountaire lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

303. Questions of law and fact common to the Class Members predominate over questions, if any, that may affect only individual members because Defendants have acted and refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Class Members.

ANSWER: Paragraph 303 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 303 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

304. Questions of law and fact common to the Class include:

- a. Whether Defendants engaged in an agreement, combination, or conspiracy to fix, depress, maintain, or stabilize the compensation paid to Class Members;
- b. Whether Defendants' exchange of nonpublic, competitively sensitive information about compensation paid to Class Members constitutes, or furthered, an agreement, combination, or conspiracy in restraint of trade;
- c. Whether such agreements constituted violations of the Sherman Antitrust Act;
- d. The identity of the participants of the alleged conspiracy;
- e. The duration of the conspiracy alleged herein and the acts performed by Defendants and their co-conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy;
- f. Whether Defendants fraudulently concealed their misconduct;
- g. Whether and to what extent Defendants' anticompetitive scheme suppressed compensation paid to Class Members below competitive levels;
- h. The nature and scope of injunctive relief necessary to restore competition; and
- i. The measure of damages suffered by Plaintiffs and the Class.

ANSWER: Paragraph 304 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 304 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

305. Plaintiffs are represented by counsel who are experienced and competent in the prosecution of complex class action antitrust litigation.

ANSWER: Paragraph 305 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 305 contains factual allegations, Mountaire lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

306. Class action treatment is a superior method for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy in that, among other things, such treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently, and without the unnecessary duplication of effort and expense that numerous individual actions would engender. The relatively small damages suffered by individual members of the Class compared to the expense and burden of individual prosecution of the claims asserted in this litigation means that, absent a class action, it would not be feasible for members of the Class to seek redress for the violations of law herein alleged. Further, individual joinder of all damaged members of the Class is impractical, and the prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Class would create the risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants. Accordingly, the benefits of proceeding through the class mechanism, including providing injured persons with a method of obtaining redress for claims that is not be practicable for them to pursue individually, substantially outweigh any difficulties that may arise in management of this class action.

ANSWER: Paragraph 306 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 306 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

307. Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to the Class, thereby making final injunctive relief appropriate with respect to the Class as a whole.

ANSWER: Paragraph 307 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire further denies that there are "class members" and that this action can be properly maintained as a class action whether on behalf of the purported class or otherwise. To the extent Paragraph 307 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

IX. CAUSES OF ACTION

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF CONSPIRACY TO DEPRESS COMPENSATION IN VIOLATION OF SECTION 1 OF SHERMAN ANTITRUST ACT (Against All Defendants, except Peco Foods and Agri Stats)

308. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege, as though fully set forth herein, each and every allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

ANSWER: Paragraph 308 does not contain any factual allegations to which a response is required. To the extent Paragraph 308 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations. Mountaire incorporates by reference its answers to each preceding and succeeding paragraph, as if fully set forth herein in response to Paragraph 308 of the Complaint.

309. Beginning in January 1, 2009, and continuing through the present, Defendants

Perdue Farms, Perdue Foods, Tyson Foods, Keystone, Pilgrim's, Sanderson Farms, Koch Foods, Wayne Farms, Mountaire Farms, Simmons Foods, Fieldale Farms, George's, Inc., George's Foods, LLC, Butterball, Jennie-O Turkey Store, Cargill, and WMS, as well as their co-conspirators, entered into a continuing agreement, understanding, and conspiracy in restraint of trade to fix, depress, maintain and stabilize the compensation paid to workers at their poultry processing plants in the continental United States, in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 309.

310. In formulating and carrying out the alleged agreement, understanding, and conspiracy, Defendants Perdue Farms, Perdue Foods, Tyson Foods, Keystone, Pilgrim's, Sanderson Farms, Koch Foods, Wayne Farms, Mountaire Farms, Simmons Foods, Fieldale Farms, George's, Inc., George's Foods, LLC, Butterball, Jennie-O Turkey Store, Cargill, and WMS, as well as their co-conspirators, did those things that they combined and conspired to do, including but not limited to:

- a. Reached agreements—through in-person meetings, exchanges of information, and other communications—to fix, depress, maintain and stabilize the compensation paid to workers at their poultry processing plants in the continental United States;
- b. Implemented, monitored, and enforced that conspiracy to depress compensation through the regular exchange of competitively sensitive, nonpublic, and detailed compensation data with the assistance of Agri Stats and WMS; and
- c. Paid the fixed, depressed, maintained, and stabilized compensation to their employees at poultry processing plants in the continental United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 310.

311. This conspiracy to fix, depress, maintain, and stabilize compensation is a per se violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 311.

312. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had the following effects, among others:

- a. Competition for the hiring and retaining of workers at poultry processing plants operated by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and/or related entities has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated in the continental United States; and
- b. Compensation paid to employees at poultry processing plants operated by Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and/or related entities has been fixed, depressed, maintained and stabilized at artificially low, noncompetitive levels throughout the continental United States.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 312 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 312.

313. Plaintiffs and the other Class Members have been injured and will continue to be injured in their businesses and property by receiving less compensation from Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and/or related entities than they would have in the absence of the combination and conspiracy.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 313 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 313.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
CONSPIRACY TO EXCHANGE COMPENSATION INFORMATION
IN VIOLATION OF SECTION 1 OF SHERMAN ANTITRUST ACT (Against all Defendants)

314. Plaintiffs incorporate and reallege, as though fully set forth herein, each and every allegation set forth in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

ANSWER: Paragraph 314 does not contain any factual allegations to which a response is required. To the extent Paragraph 314 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations. Mountaire incorporates by reference its answers to each preceding and succeeding paragraph, as if fully set forth herein in response to Paragraph 314 of the Complaint.

315. Beginning in January 1, 2009, and continuing through the present, Defendants and their co-conspirators have engaged in a continuing agreement to regularly exchange detailed, timely, competitively sensitive, and non-public information about the compensation being paid or to be paid to their employees at poultry processing plants in the continental United States. This agreement is an unreasonable restraint of trade in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 USC § 1.

ANSWER: To the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 315 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 315 purport to relate to Mountaire, Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 315.

316. The relevant market is the labor market for employment at poultry processing plants in the continental United States, and the relevant geographic market is the continental United States.

ANSWER: Paragraph 316 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 316.

317. Defendant Processors and co-conspirators collectively possess market power in the Relevant Market. Defendant Processors and co-conspirators together control more than 90 percent of the Relevant Market. Defendant Processors' and co-conspirators' collective market power includes the power to jointly set compensation for workers at poultry processing plants in the continental United States below competitive levels. This joint power clearly exists because it has been used by Defendant Processors and co-conspirators to pay Class Members sub-competitive compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 317 premised on the existence of a conspiracy. Mountaire denies that the "Relevant Market" (which Plaintiffs define) is a relevant antitrust market. Paragraph 317 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of its claims and/or economic theory, legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 317 contains factual allegations, Mountaire denies them.

318. Defendants could and did profitably suppress compensation paid to workers at poultry processing plants in the continental United States below competitive levels. In such circumstances, poultry processing workers would not be able, and were not able, to defeat such artificial compensation suppression by switching their employment to non-conspiring poultry processors, as Defendant Processors and co-conspirators control more than 90 percent of the poultry processing plants.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 318 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 318 relate to other Defendants, Plaintiffs, and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 318 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

319. A slight decrease in compensation to workers at poultry processing plants in the continental United States from a competitive level could be imposed collectively by the Defendant Processors without causing too many such workers to switch employment to non-poultry occupations.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 319 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 319 relate to other Defendants, Plaintiffs, and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 319 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

320. Defendant Processors view workers that comprise the Class as fungible. Workers within the same positions are generally interchangeable, permitting Defendant Processors to readily to compare and match each other's compensation.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 320 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 320 relate to other Defendants, Plaintiffs, and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 320 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

321. The information regularly exchanged by Defendants pursuant to the agreement has consisted of detailed, competitively sensitive, and non-public information about current and future compensation to workers at poultry processing plants. The information exchanges specifically included:

- a. The exchange each month, through Agri-Stats, of current compensation for categories of workers at poultry processing plants in the continental United States operated by Defendant Processors and co-conspirators;
- b. The exchange each year, through the WMS survey, of salaries, wages and benefits provided to each position at poultry processing plants in the continental United States operated by Defendant Processors and co-conspirators;
- c. Frequent exchanges between plant managers—through telephone calls, emails and electronic listservs—of current and future compensation paid to categories of workers at particular poultry processing plants operated by Defendant Processors and co-conspirators.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 321 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 321 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 321 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

322. Defendant Processors' regular compensation information exchanges, directly and through Agri Stats and WMS, reflected concerted action between horizontal competitors in the Relevant Market.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 322 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 322 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 322 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

323. Each Defendant Processor furnished competitively sensitive information to other Defendant Processors with the understanding that it would be reciprocated. That is, one Defendant Processor would not have provided information to Agri Stats or WMS or directly to another Defendant Processor's plants, without the understanding that they would receive comparable information from other Defendant Processors.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 323 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 323 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 323 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

324. The exchanging of such compensation information by Defendant Processors is inconsistent with the joint guidance provided by the DOJ and the Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”). In October 2016, the two agencies issued a joint “Antitrust Guidance for Human Resource Professionals.” That Antitrust Guidance states:

Sharing information with competitors about terms and conditions of employment can also run afoul of the antitrust laws. Even if an individual does not agree explicitly to fix compensation or other terms of employment, exchanging competitively sensitive information could serve as evidence of an implicit illegal agreement. While agreements to share information are not per se illegal and therefore not prosecuted criminally, they may be subject to civil antitrust liability when they have, or are likely to have, an anticompetitive effect. Even without an express or implicit agreement on terms of compensation among firms, evidence of periodic exchange of current wage information in an industry with few employers could establish an antitrust violation because, for example, the data exchange has decreased or is likely to decrease compensation. ...

However, not all information exchanges are illegal. It is possible to design and carry out information exchanges in ways that conform with the antitrust laws. For example, an information exchange may be lawful if:

- a neutral third party manages the exchange,
- the exchange involves information that is relatively old,
- the information is aggregated to protect the identity of the underlying sources, and
- enough sources are aggregated to prevent competitors from linking particular data to an individual source.

ANSWER: Paragraph 324 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies any characterization or description contained in Paragraph 324 that is inconsistent with the joint guidance provided by the DOJ and the FTC and the provisions referenced in or underlying Paragraph 324. To the extent Paragraph 324 purports to make factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

325. The compensation information exchanges by Defendant Processors—through Agri Stats, WMS surveys, plant-to-plant communications, and other means—have not complied with three of the four criteria established by the DOJ and FTC. The exchanged compensation information was not “relatively old” or historical; rather, the information concerned current and future compensation, including current wages paid by Defendant Processors and co-conspirators that were exchanged each month of the Class Period through Agri Stats. The exchanged compensation information was not “aggregated to protect the identity of the underlying sources”; rather, the information was disaggregated, as distinct compensation information was provided for poultry processing plants operated by each Defendant Processor and co-conspirator. The exchanged compensation information was not presented in a manner “to prevent competitors from linking particular data to an individual source”; rather, the information was shared in such a disaggregated manner that Defendant Processors’ executives readily and predictably could and did reverse engineer the information to match specific compensation data to individual poultry processing plants operated by competitors.

ANSWER: Paragraph 325 contains Plaintiffs’ characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. Mountaire denies any characterization or description contained in Paragraph 325 that is inconsistent with the alleged “criteria established by the DOJ and FTC” referenced in or underlying Paragraph 325. To the extent Paragraph 325 purports to make factual allegations, Mountaire denies the allegations.

326. The agreement to exchange compensation information eliminated a major incentive for Defendant Processors and co-conspirators to increase compensation to workers at their poultry processing plants in the continental United States during the Class Period. The advantage of raising compensation is to retain and attract more such workers by exceeding the compensation paid by competing poultry processing plants.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 326 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 326 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 326 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

327. The agreement to regularly exchange detailed and non-public information about current and prospective compensation to workers at poultry processing plants in the continental United States assured that the provision of superior compensation by any Defendant Processor would be timely and specifically known by its competitors. Such an agreement, therefore, eliminated the incentive of each Defendant Processor to outbid its competitors during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 327 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 327 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 327 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

328. When poultry processors that are competing for the same workers exchange their compensation plans and levels, comfort replaces uncertainty and reduces incentives to raise wages, salaries or benefits. Accordingly, each Defendant Processor used the compensation data obtained through the information exchanges to reduce the uncertainty that they should have faced from not knowing what their competitors were offering and providing in the labor market. This strategic information was a material factor in Defendant Processors' decisions to depress and stabilize compensation paid to workers at their and their related entities' poultry processing plants in the continental United States during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 328 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 328 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 328 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

329. The exchange of compensation information between Defendant Processors during the Class Period increased their relative bargaining power in setting wages, salaries, and benefits for workers at poultry processing plants owned by Defendants, their subsidiaries, and related entities in the continental United States. With such information, Defendant Processors knew what their competitors were paying comparable workers, while those workers and new applicants lacked access to most or all of such information and thus knew much less about the competitive landscape.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 329 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 329 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations.

Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 329 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

330. The regularity and detail of the compensation information exchanged, the related communications about compensation between individuals exchanging the information, the relationships of trust developed among the individuals exchanging the information, and the pervasive desire to control and restrain labor costs, encouraged Defendants and their co-conspirators to use the information to match (and not exceed) each other's compensation levels for workers at their poultry processing plants in the continental United States during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 330 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 330 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 330 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

331. Defendants' unlawful agreement to exchange, and the actual exchanges of, nonpublic, timely and detailed compensation data, was not reasonably necessary to further any procompetitive purpose. The information exchanged between Defendant Processors and their high-level executives was disaggregated, company-specific, current, and forward-looking, easily traceable to its source, confidential, and related to a core characteristic of competition between them.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 331 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 331 relate to other Defendants and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 331 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

332. The information-exchange agreement has had the effect of (1) reducing and suppressing competition among Defendant Processors, their subsidiaries, and related entities for the compensation of workers at their poultry processing plants in the continental United States and (2) depressing the compensation of such employees.

ANSWER: Paragraph 332 contains Plaintiffs' characterization of their claims and/or legal argument and conclusions, to which no response is required. To the extent Paragraph 332 purports to make factual allegations, Mountaire denies them and specifically denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased.

333. As a result of the unlawful agreement alleged herein to exchange compensation information, Plaintiffs and the other Class Members have been injured in their business or property by receiving artificially depressed compensation during the Class Period.

ANSWER: Mountaire denies any and all conspiracies alleged in the Complaint, however phrased and, therefore, denies the allegations in Paragraph 333 that are premised on the existence of a conspiracy. To the extent the allegations in Paragraph 333 relate to other Defendants, Plaintiffs, and/or third parties to this action, Mountaire denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of these allegations and, therefore, denies the allegations. Mountaire denies the allegations in Paragraph 333 to the extent they purport to relate to Mountaire.

X. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and the Class, pray that:

- A. The Court declare, adjudge, and decree this action to be a proper class action pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure on behalf of the Class defined herein, appoint plaintiffs as Class Representatives and their counsel of record as Class Counsel, and direct that notice of this action, as provided by Rule 23(c)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, be given to the Class, once certified;
- B. Defendants' actions alleged herein be adjudged and decreed to be in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1;
- C. Plaintiffs and the other Class Members recover their damages from each Defendant, jointly and severally, in an amount to be determined, and that this damages amount be trebled pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 15(a);
- D. Plaintiffs and the other Class Members be awarded pre- and post-judgment interest as allowed by law and that such interest be awarded at the highest legal rate from and after the date of service of this Complaint;
- E. Defendants, their affiliates, successors, transferees, assignees and other officers, directors, partners, agents and employees thereof, and all other entities or persons acting or claiming to act on their behalf or in concert with them, be permanently enjoined and restrained from in any manner continuing, maintaining or renewing the conduct, conspiracy, or combination alleged herein, or from entering into any other conspiracy or combination having a similar purpose or effect;

F. Plaintiffs and the other Class Members recover their costs of this suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, as provided by law; and

G. Plaintiffs and the other Class Members be granted such other relief as the case may require and deemed proper to this Court.

ANSWER: The "Prayer for Relief" Paragraph contains no factual assertions to which a response is required. It further states legal conclusions and Plaintiffs' characterizations of this action, with which Mountaire disagrees and to which no response is required. To the extent this "Prayer for Relief" Paragraph may be deemed to require a response, it is denied. Mountaire denies that Plaintiff is entitled to any relief, including the relief requested in the "Prayer for Relief" Paragraph.

XI. JURY TRIAL DEMAND

Plaintiffs demand a trial by jury of all issues so triable in this case.

ANSWER: The "Jury Demand" Paragraph does not contain any factual assertions to which a response is required. To the extent the "Jury Demand" Paragraph is deemed to require a response, Mountaire also demands a jury trial as set forth below.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

Without assuming any burden that it otherwise would not bear, and reserving the right to assert additional defenses as those defenses become known during discovery, Mountaire asserts the following separate and additional defenses. Mountaire reserves all affirmative defenses under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(c) and any other defenses at law or equity that may exist now or in the future. Mountaire reserves the right to assert other defenses as this action proceeds up to and including the time of trial.

FIRST DEFENSE:

1. Plaintiffs' claim for injunctive relief is barred by the equitable doctrine of laches.
2. "The doctrine of laches is based on the maxim that equity aids the vigilant, not those who sleep on their rights." Lyons Pship, L.P. v. Morris Costumes, Inc., 243 F.3d 789, 797 (4th Cir. 2001) (citation omitted). Specifically, laches will bar relief in the face of: "(1) lack of diligence by the party against whom the defense is asserted, and (2) prejudice to the party asserting the defense." White v. Daniel, 909 F.2d 99, 102 (4th Cir. 1990) (quoting Costello v. United States, 365 U.S. 265, 282 (1961)).
3. Plaintiffs demonstrated an unreasonable lack of diligence in bringing their claims. As set forth in support of Mountaire's statute of limitations defense, the challenged conduct that underlies Plaintiffs' claims purportedly began in 2009—more than ten years before Plaintiffs filed the Complaint in August 2019. See, e.g., Second Am. Compl. ¶¶ 5, 169. Likewise, the specific facts Plaintiffs cite in support of their claims were available to Plaintiffs long ago. Yet, Plaintiffs failed to assert their claims for years, and, this lack of diligence in raising their claims bars them now.

4. Accordingly, the equitable principles embodied in the laches doctrine bar the Plaintiffs from seeking relief at this delayed juncture.

SECOND DEFENSE:

5. Plaintiffs' claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the applicable statute of limitations.

6. The statute of limitations for Plaintiffs' claims is four years. 15 U.S.C. § 15(b).

7. Plaintiffs assert that the alleged conspiracy purportedly began in 2009, yet the Complaint was not filed until more than ten years later, in August 2019. Therefore, the action was brought long after the expiration of the limitations period.

8. The facts do not establish fraudulent concealment and, therefore, the limitations period was not tolled and Plaintiffs' claims are time-barred.

THIRD DEFENSE:

9. Plaintiffs' claims are barred, in whole or in part, to the extent they had employment contracts, pursuant to which Plaintiffs were employed by Defendants, that contain arbitration clauses or clauses providing a different forum for the resolution of the claims. See, e.g., Adkins v. Labor Ready, Inc., 303 F.3d 496 (4th Cir. 2002); In re Eternity Shipping, Ltd., 444 F.Supp. 2d 347 (D. Md. 2006).

FOURTH DEFENSE:

10. Without admitting the existence of any contract, combination or conspiracy in restraint of trade, and expressly denying same, Plaintiffs' claims are barred, in whole or in part, by non-settling Defendants' right to set off any amounts paid to Plaintiffs by any Defendants who have settled, or do settle, Plaintiffs' claims against them in this action.

FIFTH DEFENSE:

11. Plaintiffs' claims are barred, in whole or in part, because Plaintiffs lack standing to assert claims on behalf of turkey-processing and salaried employees.

12. "To have standing to sue as a class representative it is essential that a Plaintiff ... possess the same interest and suffer the same injury shared by all members of the class he represents." Schlesinger v. Reservists Comm. to Stop the War, 418 U.S. 208, 216 (1974).

13. In this case, Plaintiffs purport to bring claims on behalf of salaried employees and workers at turkey-processing plants as well. The named Plaintiffs, however, only held hourly positions at chicken-processing plants. Thus, Plaintiffs lack standing to bring claims on behalf of non-hourly and/or non-chicken processing employees.

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

Pursuant to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 38, Defendant Mountaire demands a trial by jury on all claims so triable.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Mountaire requests that Plaintiffs' Complaint be dismissed with prejudice, that the Court find that Plaintiffs are not entitled to any judgment or relief, that the Court enter judgment in favor of Mountaire, and that the Court award Mountaire its attorneys' fees, costs, and expenses, pre-judgment interest, and such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.
